BANDITS AT LYNN KILLED TWO MEN

Shoe Manufacturer and Policemen Murdered With Robbery as Motive.

TRAGEDY ENACTED ON STREET

Fugitives Chased by Posse of 10,000 Persons Which Killed One and Captured Two Others—Murderers Foreigners.

Lynn, Mass., June 25.—Three bandits, armed with automatic magazine revolvers today shot and instantly killed Thomas A. Landregan, a shoe manufacturer, fatally wounded Police Officer James H. Carroll and ran away with a bag containing $5,000, which the manufacturer and policeman were taking from a bank to the shoe factory of Welch & Landregan for the weekly pay roll. Policeman Carroll died shortly afterwards.

The robbery was committed on a busy thoroughfare in the heart of the shoe manufacturing district. Hardly had the noise of the revolver shots and the powdered smoke cleared away before the bandits were fleeing from an organized posse of 10,000 persons.

An hour later one of the bandits was dead from a self-inflicted wound, a second was in the hospital with five bullet wounds, while the third was under arrest. Abraham Lyons, who was wandering through the woods, was shot in the thigh by one of the robbers who mistook him for a pursuer.

All but $7 of the money that was stolen by the robbers was recovered.

The bandits were Russian Poles, their ages ranging from 20 to 25 years.

It is expected that at least one of them was identified with the Jamaica Plain outlaws, who committed two murders and terrorized that suburb of Boston in July, 1908.

The murder occurred a few minutes after 9 o'clock this morning. Accompanied by the policeman, Mr. Dandregan was returning from the bank with money for the factory's payroll. The three robbers had waited across the street from the bank and as Mr. Landregan and Officer Carroll started down Oxford street the robbers followed them. When Willow street was reached the robbers drew revolvers and began firing. The manufacturer fell dead with a bullet through his brain. He also was wounded in the left arm and breast. Officer Carroll staggered then dropped unconscious. Seven bullets had lodged in his body. The bullet wound from which he died having penetrated the brain.

The third robber seized the money bag and started up Oxford street, while the bandits who had done the shooting made a demonstration with their revolvers. Finally they ran after their comrade. By this time the pursuit was on. Every one who had heard of the shooting joined in the chase. The bandits headed for High Rock, threatening whomsoever they met and firing several random shots. A horse belonging to Miss Bessie Baker was being held by a groom in front of the Baker home. One of the robbers grappled with the horse's bridle and, threatening the groom with death if he interfered, started down the street. Miss Baker ran out of the house, threw her arms around the horse's neck and held on. The bandit thereupon dropped the bridle and ran. Miss Baker told the direction taken by the robbers and thus aided materially in their ultimate capture.

Reaching the summit of High Rock, the bandits stopped to divide the stolen money. The silver was left there, only bills being taken. Then they separated and by a circuitous route managed to reach a field off Ford street. It was near this point that Lyons was shot by one of the bandits, though not seriously.

In the meantime a cordon of police and citizens had been thrown around the entire section of the city. The police discovered one of the bandits in a thicket near Ford street. Several shots were sent after him and the fugitive returned the shots.

The police called upon him to surrender. He answered by sending a bullet through his brain. He died instantly. He was wounded in five places. A second bandit was located on Boston street, a short distance away. He surrendered only after he had been shot in the arm, the leg, the breast and the head. He was taken to the Lynn hospital and probably will die. He said that his name was Andy Abson and that he lived in New York City.

The other man was captured without a struggle. One of the fingers of his left hand had been shot away. In taking him to police headquarters the officers had a hard time in protecting their prisoner. A crowd made a dash for the robber, punched him, knocked him down and kicked him and it was only after a spirited struggle that the prisoner was landed safely within the station. This man gave his name as Baccini Wladopski. He said his home was in Boston. Wladopski will be formally charged with murder Monday morning.

Mr. Landregan was 46 years old and married. He was the junior partner in the shoe manufacturing firm of Welch and Landregan. Policeman Carroll was 52 years old and married. He was prominent in the Order of Elks, being a past exalted ruler of the Lynn Lodge.

CONGRESS ENDS INQUIRY AT CLOSE

Two Investigations Into the Charges of Senator Gore During Recess.

PRESIDENT TAFT ALL SMILES

Especially Pleased With Work of 61st Session—Committees From Both Houses for Inquiry—Resolutions Were Passed.

Washington, June 25.—Each House of Congress tonight marked its closing hour by voting for an investigation of the McMurray Indian contracts. Instead of the usual scene of comparatively undignified relaxation from the business of legislation both Houses devoted exceedingly serious attention to the charges of attempted bribery and other forms of improper influence made in the Senate yesterday by Senator Gore, of Oklahoma, and subsequently in the House by Representative Murphy, of Missouri.

Two separate investigations are provided for—one in each House. Each body passed a resolution creating a select committee of five members to pursue the inquiry to the bottom during recess of Congress and to report whether any of its members are, or have been interested in any of these contracts. Until a late hour in the day it looked rather as if the matter would go by default. But as soon as the two Houses reconvened at 9 o'clock tonight after a recess since afternoon the matter came up with a rush, and crowded galleries listened with intense interest to the proceedings which ended in the vote to probe the charges.

During the proceedings in the Senate, in the "Marble room" adjoining the Senate chamber, were ex-Senators Long, of Kansas, and Thurston, of Nebraska, who have been mentioned in connection with the Indian contract matter, as well as Attorney J. F. McMurray, of McAllister, Okla., whom Senator Gore named as the principal owner of the Indian contracts in question.

Speaker Cannon appointed the following committee to conduct the House investigation: Messrs. Burke, South Dakota, chairman; Campbell, of Kansas; Miller, of Minnesota; Stephens, of Texas and Saunders, of Virginia.

Vice president Sherman announced the following committee to conduct the Senate investigation: Senators Jones, of Washington; Burton, of Ohio; Crawford, of South Dakota; Hughes, of Colorado, and Percy, of Mississippi.

Eleven o'clock was the hour set for the adjournment of the session; all the evening the capitol corridors and galleries were crowded with spectators. Aside from the serious atmosphere surrounding the passage of the investigation resolutions, the place wore the usual aspect of adjournment night.

President Taft arrived at the capitol about 10 o'clock, accompanied by six members of his cabinet. They went to the President's room, where the chief executive stood by to act upon more important bills coming to him from the two Houses.

The closing procedure was as usual. There were the usual committees of notifications from each House to the other and from both to the President, the usual farewells.

The gavels of the presiding officers fell at approximately the agreed hour, and the first regular session, the "long session"—well named—seven months—of the 61st Congress was at an end.

President Taft walked out of the capitol at 11 o'clock tonight smiling.

The second session of the 61st Congress had just adjourned and he had signed practically all matters of legislation that had been placed before him. He received congratulations from his cabinet and from members of both branches of Congress upon the successful passage of most of his pet measures. Mr. Taft shook hands all round and continued to smile.

Resolutions Passed.

At Senator Carter's instance a letter was read from ex-Senator John M. Thurston, of Nebraska, demanding an investigation. Proceeding upon the theory that Mr. Gore had made charges against him, he said that he was entirely innocent. He said, however, that in connection with ex-Senator Long, of Kansas, he had acted as counsel for McMurray.

Senator Hughes in presenting his resolution stated that Senator Gore's accusations were so grave that they could not be ignored. The resolution was adopted without opposition. It is as follows:

"Resolved, That a committee of five, to be appointed by the chair, be and it is hereby directed to investigate and report whether any Senator of the United States is, or during his term of office has been interested in or connected with legislation affecting the approval of Indian contracts or has done anything because of said interest and whether any improper attempts or efforts to prevent or to secure the passage of a statute, affecting the approval of Indian contracts have been made at this session of Congress and said committee is authorized to sit and proceed in the vacation."

The clock in the President's room was chiming the eleventh hour when the Senate bell rang four times signalling the final adjournment of the session. Without the loss of a moment the President followed by his retinue of cabinet members and assistants left the building.

The last measure signed was a joint resolution to authorize the Secretary of War to loan tents to the Appalachian exposition to be held in Knoxville, Tenn., in September, which Mr. Taft expects to attend.

REGULARS LOST IN WAKE COUNTY

Majorities For "Ring" in City Overcome by "Insurgents" in Country.

SHARP CONTEST IS ENDED

W. B. Jones Concedes His Defeat—Landslide in Rural Precincts—Vote Was Heavy Everywhere.

(Special Star Telegram.

Raleigh, N. C., June 25.—Raleigh township gave the regular or "ring" wings of the party candidates majorities ranging from 355 to 598, but the returns from the rural districts which have been coming in very slowly tonight are showing such a landslide for the insurgents, that it looks like nearly all of these town majorities will be overcome.

In fact, Senator W. B. Jones conceded at 11 o'clock tonight that he was defeated by Dr. E. W. Sikes, the insurgent candidate for the Senate. While only a little more than half of the rural precincts have been heard from there is enough in to show ample majorities to overcome the lead the regulars have in Raleigh where Senator Jones received 355 majority, Russ, for clerk of the Court, 598, Sears, sheriff, 532, Bernard, register of deeds, 419 and Pegram, treasurer, 447. The vote in Raleigh township was 1,960 and of this, Russ, regular, received 1,297 and Mial, "insurgent," 681, these being the clerk of court candidates.

While it is hard to tell as to the ticket as a whole it is conceded that Senator Jones is defeated by Dr. Sikes and that Register of Deeds J. J. Bernard is defeated by Anderson, insurgent. Looks like the county precincts will give six or seven hundred majorities for the insurgents to counteract the Raleigh regular vote.

ACTOR SULLY IS DEAD.

Old Time Actor Passed Away at Home at Woodstock, N. Y.

Woodstock, N. Y., June 25.—Dan Sully, the old time actor, died at his home here this afternoon from Bright's disease and heart failure. He had been ill for three months.

Sully whose real name was Daniel Sullivan, was born in Newport, R. I., in 1855. He was well and favorably known to theatre goers of recent times as well as of a generation ago. Both playwright and player, he wrote most of the productions in which he appeared. "The Corner Grocery" (1884) brought his first notable success. Among his other offerings was "The Parish Priest."

New York, June 25.—Most people who have seen Bessie Clayton, the dancer, on the stage would never suspect her of being married for sixteen years. But that is the case, for Miss Clayton has begun divorce proceedings against her husband, Julian Mitchell, one of the most famous stage managers in the country, and she sets for in her bill that she has been married for sixteen years to Mitchell. Miss Clayton and her husband met when they were appearing in one of the late Charles H. Hoyt's comedies. Later they appeared together with Weber & Fields. They have one child, Priscilla, aged nine.

Greek Minister to Wed Fair Washington Belle

Washington, June 25.—Lambros A. Coromilas, Greek minister to the United States, and Miss Anna Ewing Cockrell, daughter of former Senator Cockrell, of Missouri, will be married July 6 at Norwich, Conn. Mr. Coromilas is about fifty-five years old and, with gray vandyke and bushy graiy hair, is one of the most striking appearing members of the diplomatic corps. He is a bachelor and until his arrival here three years ago was considered by his fellow diplomats as a woman hater.

ROOSEVELT TO TAKE A HAND

Will Endeavor to Turn the Tide in New York State—Hughes to Sacrifice—Day at Oyster Bay. Colonel Busy.

Oyster Bay, N. Y., June 25.—Theodore Roosevelt may never make another political speech, as he said the other day, but he is going to roll up his sleeves and lunge into the thick of the political campaign that will be waged this Fall for the control of New York State.

It may be said with authority that he will devote his every effort to save the Republican party from the defeat which he thinks menaces it in this State and that he will not shirk the responsibilities which have been placed on his shoulders by those who look to him as the one man who can command the situation.

Out of the coming conference between Col. Roosevelt and Gov. Hughes will issue an articulated policy. The Governor and the former Governor will go over the entire political situation in New York State as it is today. Mr. Roosevelt will indicate his belief that if Gov. Hughes accept a place on the United States Supreme Court bench as the Governor already has signified it his intention to do and thus withdraws entirely from active politics, the result may be disastrous to his party.

Mr. Roosevelt may not and probably

ITALY AFTER CHARLTON CASE

Formal Application For Wife Murderer's Extradition By Italian Government—Negotiating With United States.

New York, June 25.—The case against Porter Charlton, who has confessed having murdered his wife at Lake Como, Italy, marked time today. With the attitude of the Charlton's defined and the status of the case in New Jersey law established, further developments now await the outcome of such extradition negotiations as may be in progress between the State Department at Washington and the foreign office at Rome. All evidence in the case was turned over to the Italian foreign office by the Minister of Justice today.

Formal application has been made for the prisoner's extradition by the Italian government," said Gustave Di-Rosa, acting consul general here tonight in a signed statement. Charlton's crime he continued, "was against society and the welfare of society demands that he answer for his offense. The Italian government is without feeling in the matter. The Italian judge at Como is more than willing to forward here all the evidence in the case. He would like to have Charlton tried here, but that your laws forbid. Therefore extradition seems just, reasonable and imperative from the standpoint of society at large.

"It is absurd that alienists should stand in the way of this man's return to Lake Como. If Charlton is insane, Italian alienists are as capable to determine the degree of his responsibility as others. Our laws are fair and our punishments no more severe than here."

There was a further examination of Charlton this afternoon by the corps of alienists retained for his defense, but no statement of the conclusions reached was forthcoming. "We do not expect to report for some time yet," said R. Floyd Clark his counsel.

FUNERAL OF A SUICIDE.

Birmingham Man Buried Near Philadelphia Yesterday.

Philadelphia, June 25.—The funeral of Guy R. Johnson, whose death a few days ago in Birmingham, Ala., is reported to have been self-inflicted in a suicide agreement, took place this afternoon at Bryn Mawr, a suburb. The Rev. George C. Carter, of the Episcopal Church of the Redeemer, officiated and interment was made in the cemetery adjoining the church.

In the small company that stood at the grave was the widow, Mrs. Johnson, who before her marriage was Miss Edith Whelan, a member of a prominent Philadelphia family.

SPEAKER PRAISES THE 61ST SESSION

More Accomplished Than During Any Period of His Long Service.

"UNCLE JOE" TELLS OF WORK

Says Reform in Rules Has Resulted in Little Advantages—Had No Apologies to Make—Summarized the Features.

Washington, June 25.—Speaker Cannon in a statement from the rostrum just before the House adjourned tonight declared that he had nothing to apologize for as a member of the House, or as Speaker, and he presumed each member could say the same thing.

After stating that closing Congress has been at times a strenuous session, the Speaker declared "As we pass from Washington to our homes, I shall go, putting behind me the contests through which the House has passed without malice."

The Speaker wished each member of the House health during the coming vacation.

Speaker Cannon tonight summarized the work of Congress in a statement he gave to the press. The Speaker paid most attention to the legislative work accomplished, referring only incidentally to the fight which had been made on the rules of the House. The reform of the rules, he said, had resulted in little advantages. The Speaker declared that the Congress just ended had done more and better work than any Congress of which he had been a member, during his 35 years of service in the House.

After recounting the legislation enacted, the Speaker said: "This work of legislation has gone on quietly but effectively while those who view Congress from a distance have been assuming that the House was doing nothing but changing its rules. The changes of rules have contributed to the pleasure and perhaps the power of some individuals in the House; but the current of legislation itself has moved on as usual, with little disturbance on account of a few new methods, and with little advantage therefrom.

"I do not think the work of a Congress should be measured by the volume of business, but by the character of the legislation and the care taken in its consideration. Measured by that standard the 61st Congress will take high place in the record of legislation. There have been, however, more than 6,000 of the 27,000 bills considered and reported from committees, and about 300 public laws enacted in this session as against 400 public laws for the entire 60th Congress. I can commend the entire membership of the House for industry and intelligence in their legislative work of this session."

Continuing the Speaker said: "This Congress has not only revised the tariff without disturbing business, but it has enacted important legislation, amending the inter-state commerce law, making that law more effective, giving the Interstate Commerce Commission greater power and creating a court of commerce, and this without seriously affecting the business of the railroads or checking their increase of wages to their employes. This seems to me to meet the definition of statesmanship in legislation.

"This Congress has also enacted a postal savings bank law, which is entirely new legislation, blazing a new trail in law-making in this country."

The Speaker then detailed other legislation which had been enacted.

"The appropriations," he said, "have been large, but not nearly as large as demanded by the people, who were agitating over the development of the various departments of the government.

"The Democrats have talked about economy, but they have helped enlarge every appropriation and there are bills introduced by Democrats and not acted upon which would call for $500,000,000 additional expenditure. So, I take it, their talk of economy is pickwickian.

"As I said in the beginning, the work of this Congress has been greater than any other with which I have been identified as a member, and it has been constructive legislation in the face of destructive tactics and efforts to create factional strife. These efforts, I regret to say, have received more attention in the public press than the real work of legislation and having given so much space to the revolutionary efforts, at the expense of the record of work, it is not surprising that some of the editors should suddenly discover in these last days that the Republican Congress has enacted laws to carry out the pledges of the Republican platform and then jump at the conclusion that this work has been done in haste before adjournment, instead of being the pains-taking effort of seven months by the committees and the members of Congress."

Philadelphia, June 25.—Miss Hazel Hotchkiss, of Berkely, Cal., here this afternoon successfully defended her title as woman lawn tennis champion of the United States by defeating Miss Louise Hammond, of New York in straight sets 6-4; 6-2.

SIXTH DISTRICT PRIMARIES HELD

All Counties Save Brunswick Elect Delegates to the Conventions.

GODWIN DEVELOPS STRENGTH

Several Counties, However, Are Divided, Notably Robeson and Harnett, According to Report. Returns Incomplete.

All counties in the Sixth Congressional district, save Brunswick, which will hold a mass convention on Wednesday of this week in which all members of the party in good standing are entitled to be seated, held precinct primaries or meetings yesterday and last night, and although the returns are very slow in being made in anything like official form, it would seem that Congressman Godwin has developed unusual and unexpected strength, although perhaps not to a degree that ensures him the nomination over the four other strong candidates in the field.

McClammy and Cook seem to be the only candidates who will be able to go in the convention with their respective solid delegations behind them, a very serious division being even reported in Harnett, though Mr. Godwin made severe inroads upon Maj. A. J. McKinnon in Robeson; where ex-Sheriff McLeod turned the party organization against him, while the same seems to be more or less true of Bladen with respect to Mr. O. L. Clark. It is estimated also that Mr. Godwin will lead the other candidates in Columbus.

The vote in the convention has been announced as follows, based on the Democratic vote for Governor two years ago:

Brunswick	13
Bladen	24
Columbus	41
Cumberland	40
Harnett	31
New Hanover	43
Robeson	60
Total	251

Necessary to choice 126.

In New Hanover.

Elsewhere in today's paper the story of the precinct meetings in New Hanover is told and Mr. McClammy will go into the convention with the solid 42 votes by him first, last and all the time.

Returns From Robeson.

Lumberton, N. C., June 25.—The primary passed off quietly in this county this afternoon. Returns indicate a landslide for Godwin. Returns from 21 out of 23 townships give Godwin 1,743 and McKinnon 435. A few votes were cast for both Clark and Cook. Little attention is given to the judgeship and from information received, it is estimated that the county will be about equally divided between Allen and Manning. Lumberton township gave Godwin 241, McKinnon 66; Allen 144; Manning 124. Godwin, it is said, will get 40 of Robeson's 60 votes in convention.

Maxton, N. C., June 25.—Information here is that the Croatan vote was a large factor in the defeat of Mr. McKinnon in today's primaries in this county. Mr. McKinnon carried his township of Maxton without a dissenting vote, showing his wide popularity at home.

From Bladen.

Clarkton, N. C., June 25.—The largest and most enthusiastic meeting of the voters of Brown Marsh township, Bladen county, that ever came together in any convention met in the Pythian Hall at Clarkton for the purpose of electing delegates to the county convention to be held at Elizabethtown next Saturday. There were voters at this meeting that had never been known to attend a primary before. They were very enthusiastic over their candidate for Congress and adopted strong resolutions endorsing him and each voter present signed the resolution and pledged himself to go to the county convention and also to the Congressional convention and stay until their choice was nominated. During the meeting there was a short and encouraging talk made by Mr. Clark, the farmers' and business man's candidate and the next Congressman from the Sixth District.

The four townships of Bladen county heard from here voted their solid strength for Clark.

Elizabethtown, N. C., June 25.—The latest reports indicate that Godwin will get a small per cent. of the vote, amounting to not over two or three votes. Most of the townships heard from instructed for Clark. It developed on the eve of the primary that the Godwin forces were well organized in Bladen and demanded a vote taken. The Clark supporters were under the impression that there would not be any fight made against their candidate in the primaries and were not prepared for the aggressive opposition. Not near all the returns are in but Godwin has developed wonderful strength.

In Cumberland.

Fayetteville, N. C., June 25.—Today the Democratic primaries were held at the different precincts throughout Cumberland county to elect delegates to the county convention in Fayetteville, July 2nd. In but few instances —SAILORS' CHANTY.

It required the combined service of three ridge artists and the closest fielding for the Highlanders to defeat the Sailors in the final game of the Fayetteville series here yesterday afternoon, the score having been 3 to 2. Brooks mounded for the locals and although he allowed but six hits, the crew was able to garn only four off the Fayetteville trinity and this paucity with five errors, tells the story.

Mullen started the trouble in the first inning with a bingle to right and stole second; Dobson was safe on an infield hit and also stole second. Then after Schumaker was out at first, O'Halloran bingled past first and Mullin and Dobson tallied. Donovan got life on first and O'Halloran went to second on error of short, but Bunting and O'Halloran were out on the execution of a neat double short to second to first. Dubbs got a Texas Leaguer for Wilmington after Kluttz fouled to catcher and stole second but Ty flew to left and Mills ethered.

Both teams were out in order in the second and third, Boyle having been put in by the Kilties and in the fourth O'Halloran hit to right and was sacrificed by Donovan; Bunting was out second to first, O'Halloran going to third and scoring on McEnroe's bingle to right; Galvin singled to right advancing McEnroe to second but Boyle flew to second. Wilmington was out in order. With the exception of life to Luyster on error, Fayetteville was out one, two, three in the fifth and Wilmington put over her first run when Doak led off with a hit by the Bull Durham sign for two bases and scored on Carroll's bingle past second; Burke was safe on bunted ball but Carroll was out at second; Gilmore flew to second and Brooks to deep left.

In the sixth O'Halloran was safe on error of pitcher, Donovan also hit forcing O'Halloran, being himself out trying second, Burke making a pretty leaping catch; Bunting was out third to first and Mayer was put in for Fayetteville to hold the game. Kluttz walked and was sacrificed by Dubbs, stole third, Tydeman fanning and Kluttz scoring on Mills' biff to centre, Mills going to second on bobble of the fielder; Doak was out third to first.

McEnroe went to second on error in rightfield, Galvin was out second to first, Mayer short to first, in the seventh; McEnroe stole third, but Mullin was out second to first. Wilmington was out in order.

In the eighth Dobson was safe on error of second, was sacrificed by Luyster and stole third but O'Halloran was out second to first and Donovan short to first. Wilmington was out in order in its half and both teams were likewise retired in the ninth.

Rocky Mount, N. C., June 25.—After having tied up the game in the early sessions, in the 11th inning Thorpe singled through the box for one base and on Gillespie's single in right he romped home with as nerve wrecking a piece of base running as ever was seen here. The ball was handled clean and the throw to the plate was good, but the Chief beat it there and by a phenomenal slide won his own game in the 11th.

The baseball team of the Y. M. C. A. defeated the Wrightsboro team on the diamond of the latter yesterday afternoon by the score of 10 to 3. The feature of the game was the twirling of LeMoyne for the Y. M. C. A. The game was umpired by Mr. J. B. Huntington, physical director of the Y. M. C. A.

Two Men Put Over in First Inning Saved Day For Red Birds—Clemmons' Great Hit Started the Trouble.

(Special Star Telegram.)

Raleigh, N. C., June 25.—Raleigh cinched the game with Goldsboro this afternoon by putting in two runs in the first inning, Clemmons getting a two-base drive as a starter. Later McDonald, for Goldsboro, divided honors by a two-bagger that, but for his avoirdupois, would have been a three-bagger.

CAROLINA MILLS TO CLOSE.

Fifty-Eight Cotton Factories Will Shut Down Four Weeks.

Gastonia, N. C., June 25.—Representatives of 58 cotton mills assembled here today, signed an agreement to shut down completely for four weeks in July and August. The mills represented are located in Gastonia, Mecklenburg, Cleveland, Lincoln and Catawba counties, this State, and York county, South Carolina. This movement means nearly 700,000 spindles will be idle during that period and that one million pounds of yarn and cloths will be taken off the market weekly for a month. The spinners believe that other mills will follow suit and that the situation now confronting them will thus be relieved.

"Peevish Plaints"

Fanged!
Oh! Well!
We'll see 'em again.
They told it to us again.
Bitten; but still in the ring.
O'Halloran got two of Fayette's hits.
Please let's dispose of our incubator.

Brooks got his bumps for the very first time.

Mullin and Dobson culled hits the first time up.

Fayetteville's hits were bunched like a coronet braid.

"Move on please; you're stepping on my enthusiasm!"

Henderson as an umpire is all to the French dressing.

The domestics chalked up a double in the very first frame.

Tidy churned twice, and didn't get a hit. Friday was his day.

Frankly, it didn't give us very much of an appetite for supper.

Dobson is some first sackman all right; still we've got a Mills.

It took a round dozen of our visitors to tuck away the contest.

Dubbsy retrieved two chances that found a right of way through Brooks.

Mr. Mayer's winding-up ante delivery resembled a dollar mark with a chill.

Money makes the Mayer go; he started here, but detoured to Fayetteville.

'Twas the first time Brooks has misfired since he's been with the team.

Brooks didn't pass a man. Kluttz drew free transportation from Mayer the first time up.

The Kiltie infield is a peach—the clingstone kind too. And the outfield is no prune fruit.

How about that little stealing of the Sailors? Dubbs annexed second, and Kluttz filched third.

Doak rung up a two-bagger, but his gardening in the alfalfa was not of the headliny variety.

Victory, they say, always comes on flying wings, but defeat certainly has a crawling sensation.

Lune up at the Matinee Monday. We're going to lift some games this week, and that's all there is to it.

The highlanders got a grip on the game in the first session like a hot curling iron around a spare tendril.

Burke made a rattling good stop in the early stages, but had a tendency to fondle the ball most of the time.

Brooksy; you had an off day, that's all. We couldn't expect you to win all the time; then there wouldn't be any league.

While they managed to defeat us that pop, there's no reason for the Bugs to develop acute cases of frigid feet.

We had them scared, and that's no dream. They pretty near exhausted their pitching supply in cinching the affair.

Carroll made one beautiful overhead spear in scoreboard territory; and put the wood to the one that netted a tally.

On a peg to the turnaround in the sixth Burke stabbed a high throw and touched the runner out while off terra firma.

Bunting, the Highlander third sacker, certainly covers ground, moving like a shyster lawyer after an ambulance case.

McEnroe petted Gilmore's drive in the third but recovered to catch the adipose one before he tagged the primary pillow.

Dobson must have been our bogy man. He pulled off so many capillary elevating catches in warming up it generated a case of nerves.

We feel like a busy bee had presented us with his other line—outside of the honey matter—somewhere between the roof and the pantry.

Brooks had the Wright Brothers looking like earthworms in the last, and got his full membership in the Aero Club in the fourth session.

"No! we don't feel like any last rose of summer, with the petals garnered. We're all right, and mean to shake somebody out of the percentage column this week. Just watch us!"

We commenced to Waymack and as he didn't tip the beams at much, another essayed the twirl; we then found the head of the Boyle, and the Mayer had to assume charge of the proceedings.

To some it appeared Mills struck Schumaker in the mouth in stifling the latter off first and holding the runner at third, when, as a matter of fact, Schumaker was tagged in the body, and his teeth struck Mills in the forehead.

JEFF AND SULLIVAN FRIENDS

No Difference Between the Old Fighters—Met at Training Quarters Yesterday—Johnson Worked Hard—Features.

Reno, Nev., June 25.—Who brought John L. Sullivan and James J. Jeffries together? A vociferous chorus of "I did" perhaps from a dozen lusty throats would greet that query were it propounded in the presence of every one who tonight is posing as the original peacemaker.

Certainly, a large can would be required to hold all the oil alleged to have been poured on the troubled waters. If the question were put to a vote, there is little doubt that John L.'s old trainer, William Muldoon, would be acclaimed the man chiefly responsible for re-uniting in the bonds of amity the famous ex-champions.

Sullivan's return visit to Jeffries' camp today and the friendly reception given him by Corbett and Jeffries was not unexpected.

"I guess everything is all right now," said Sullivan as he grasped Corbett's outstretched hand. "Sure," was the quick reply.

Muldoon, coming up, accompanied Corbett and Sullivan into the rubbing room where Jeffries was stretched on a slab. The big fellow held out his hand in welcome and John L. shook it warmly as he cried: "Hello, young fellow. By heavens, you're looking great."

"And I'm strong, too," Jeffries told him. Then they talked about battles of, a by-gone day and after another handshake all round, Sullivan returned to Reno.

Crowds thronged both training camps today. Jeffries, after light work in the morning went fishing.

Jack Johnson worked hard. Several miles on the road and seven rounds of boxing in a broiling sun, not to speak of bag-punching and medicine ball play, composed the initial grind in his new camp.

An accident marred his afternoon programme. Driven by a terrific blow from the champion the punching bag broke from its moorings and struck Ben Benjamin, a San Francisco sporting writer, full in the face, breaking his glasses and cutting the flesh slightly under the eye.

The contractors promised Rickard tonight to have the arena finished in every detail, and ready for use by July 2nd.

Sheriff C. P. Fernell announced the appointment of two local physicians to act for the county in examining the fight principals ten hours before they enter the ring, a requirement stipulated by the State law.

CORNELL AGAIN WINNER

Took All Honors In Inter-Collegiate Regatta Yesterday.

Poughkeepsie, June 25.—Cornell repeated her last year's feat of winning the three races of the inter-collegiate regatta today. The 'Varsity eight oared race was not finished until after 8 o'clock and most of the course was rowed in semi-darkness which made it almost impossible to distinguish the crews.

Pennsylvania pressed Cornell closely throughout the race and was but a half length behind at the finish. Columbia proved a disappointment, finishing third.

Cornell victories in the four oared and the freshmen eights were easily gained.

Official time: Cornell 20:42 1-5; Pennsylvania 20:44 1-5; Columbia 20:54 1-5; Syracuse 21:13; Wisconsin 21:15 3-5.

He was popular with his associates who with his large family connection mourn his loss.

Norfolk, Va., June 25.—Both the Virginia championships, singles and doubles will remain in Virginia for this afternoon after five sets had been played Winston and Whitehead, of Norfolk, defeated Thornton and Grant, of Atlanta, in the doubles by the score of three sets to two. The local players took a brace after the second set and won three straights.

Huston C. Johnson, Eloped, Married, Happy—Other Notes of Interest.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Maxton, N. C., June 25.—Huston C. Johnson, known as "Charlie", of whom your correspondent has made special reports during this past week, called Thursday, and smilingly stated that he wished us to say for him that "mommer" forgave himself and bride, that the case had been nolle prossed, and he and his wife would live in Maxton, where he has a job carpentering. We asked him what he would do with Mary Herrin, his former supposed wife and he said simply: "Nothing. I'm going to live a straight life now and I'm happy. Mary followed me around, but I'm through with that life."

A social gathering of young people was held Thursday evening at the home of Miss Mary Currie, who lives one-half mile northeast of Maxton, and a most enjoyable time is reported by all who attended.

The A. J. McKinnon Co., occupied their new one-story brick garage building on Thursday and we are reliably informed that the business is prospering so far, although their former quarters were somewhat cramped. The new building is in the rear of the new Maxton bank building, and faces the Seaboard railroad. The building is fitted with a concrete floor and at present there are 15 automobiles of different makes occupying the same.

The Maxton and Red Springs baseball teams crossed bats Thursday and the score for nine innings was 9 to 4 in favor of Maxton.

Mr. T. J. Davis, general manager of the new Elba Manufacturing Co.'s oil mill, located here, and now receiving the finishing touches, was here on Thursday, inspecting the plant.

Treasurer J. A. Van Ness, of the Elba Manufacturing Co., was in Maxton Wednesday and Thursday on business connected with the plant. His home is in Charlotte.——A. M. Scarborough, a well known citizen of Wilmington, was in Maxton on business Thursday.

Politics is getting. pretty hot in "this neck of the woods" and Maj. McKinnon seems to have ordered his heavy artillery (the county press) into service, and the editorial bombshells seem to be hitting the mark with telling effect. Today the township hosts are gathering and we await with abated breath the outcome of the impending political battle.

Farmers who come to Maxton tell us that lice in their cotton crop is causing them no little anxiety.

Mrs. W. B. Harker, wife of Editor Harker, of the Scottish Chief, visited Polkton this week.

Rev. Mr. McWhorter, president of Carolina College, has a new assistant in the person of Prof. Walter F. McCandless, of Philadelphia.

Mr. V. D. Malloy, who has been in charge of the erection of the new oil mill at this point, has accepted a splendid position in Georgia, and will shortly move there.

Mr. Fred Hilburn, the genial young printer employed in the Chief office here, leaves tomorrow for his home at Bladensboro, where he will attend a family reunion. His father is the Rev. R. M. Hilburn, of the Baptist church.

R. E. Johnson, formerly of Gulfport, Miss., has arrived and will soon take charge of the Elba Manufacturing Co's office here. Mrs. Johnson accompanied her husband.

The Bank of Maxton has at last reached a three-story height, and is now ready for the roof. It is an imposing structure and compared to the surrounding buildings it looms up toward the sky in a "N. Y. skyscraper fashion."

REFLECTIONS.

Supposed to be Sung by Mr. Godwin, With Chorus by Messrs. Cook, Clark, McKinnon and McClammy.

(By a Looker-On in Venice.)

NOTE:—Mr. Godwin says, "Mrs. Stewart's letter is" the last attempt of the combination to turn the tide that is now running so strongly in his favor", and that the Tart case, decided by the Supreme Court, "is paid advertising matter prepared and published by the combined opposition."

Solo, By Godwin.

I was pending, pending, pending,
In the long, long while ago;
Where the cypress was atwining,
In the tangled swamps o' flow;
Where the brownie bear was roaming,
Without the slightest fright;
An the rattler snapped his rattle.
In manifest contempt.
While the cricket chirped his crooning,
In monotonous delight;
And the alligator did his basking,
In the sunshine of content.

Yes, I was pending, pending, pending,
In the sweet, long while ago;
With bayou, bog and bay contending
Where the muddy waters ever flow;
And the laurel wreaths were pending,
Upon my exultant brow,
'Till the mosquito combination,
Impounding the nomination
Set the laurel leaves to fading
And the thorns upon my brow!

Chorus in Quattette.

By Cook, Clark, McKinnon and McClammy.

Yes, you were pending, pending, pending,
In the sweet, long while ago,
But the widow clipped the pendant,
And the lunatic chawed the remnant,
Dropping it to gloomy depths below.
And, as you were pending, pending, pending,
Quoth the people, "Nevermore."

STARTING A FASHION

The Way a New Style in Ladies' Hair Was Born In France.

TOUCHED A QUEEN'S VANITY.

Marie Antoinette's Hairdresser Was Confronted With a Serious Situation, but His Gascon Diplomacy Proved Equal to the Occasion.

At the end of the year 1781 Leonard, hairdresser to Queen Marie Antoinette, was confronted by an alarming situation, and with the fulfillment of this dread event would fall his credit. But with his native "Gascon quickness"—as Leonard puts it in his "Recollections"—he proceeded to save his reputation.

"Madame," said he one day to the queen when he saw that the fall of her hair was imminent, "the high headdress is becoming very common. It is long since the bourgeoisie has taken possession of it, and now it is the turn of the common people."

"Good gracious, Leonard, what are you telling me? Do you know it grieves me to hear it? Those headdresses were so becoming to me!"

"And what headdress would not become your majesty? I have carefully thought over a total revolution in your majesty's headdress. I have even had your portrait drawn with the new arrangement I have in view, and, as I expected, my august sovereign by adopting my innovation would be made younger by six or seven years."

"Do you mean it, Leonard? The headdress you have in mind would make me look younger?"

"I do not see what your majesty could gain in that, for many women of the court would take on years to resemble the queen of France."

"Oh, I do not deceive myself, Leonard. I shall soon be twenty-seven, and at that age a style which makes one look younger is always favorably received."

"Well, madame," Leonard continued quickly, while placing a miniature before her majesty's eyes, "see this portrait. It is a striking resemblance. It is your majesty, but ten years younger."

"What do I see—the hair cut a few inches from the head?"

"Yes, madame, it will be, if you are pleased to consent to it, a coiffure a l'enfant, and you will see it taken up with as much enthusiasm as all those that I have created for your majesty."

"You are right, Leonard. It is charming. In truth, I am but eighteen with my hair dressed like that. But to sacrifice my beautiful hair!"

"Your majesty will have the satisfaction of seeing all the ladies of the court, all the ladies of France, sacrifice theirs."

"But if the style changes?"

"Who would dare to adopt a new one without your majesty's having first set the example? If some ambitious hairdresser amid the myriad of weaklings who swarm in Paris should dare undertake such a change I would have him reduced to atoms by the Journal des Dames. He would be a ruined man."

"But I prize my hair very much," said the queen, with an air of hesitation, still looking at the portrait. Yet I am dying to have my hair dressed a l'enfant."

"Well, madame, since I have been so fortunate as to find a style which pleases your majesty I must tell you all. For the last two weeks all my waking hours have been devoted to the service of my sovereign in the attempt to make an agreeable thing of an imperative necessity."

"What do you mean, Leonard?"

"Your majesty was saying a little while ago that she prized her hair, and I can easily understand it; but, unfortunately, her hair does not prize her. Before fifteen days it will have entirely fallen out if this very day we do not apply the infallible remedy—the scissors."

"What's that you say?" exclaimed the queen with veritable fright.

"The least painful of truths, madame, since what I propose to your majesty, while forestalling a great misfortune, is entirely to her taste."

"Come, Leonard; no more deliberation. Cut it, but do not cut it too short."

"Just enough, madame, to give back to the roots of the hair the vigor it was beginning to lose."

The queen's beautiful hair fell under Leonard's regenerating scissors, and two weeks afterward all the ladies of the court had their hair dressed a l'enfant.

Let no one say there is no diplomacy outside the king's cabinet. It is at the bottom of all human combinations.—Youth's Companion.

A Losing Game.

"I lost $2,000 last night," observed the noted lecturer, who charged 50 cents a word for his oratory.

"How was that—poker?" inquired the man who didn't care much for lectures anyway.

"No. Talked in my sleep," replied the lecturer, wiping away a tear.—Puck.

Suspicious.

"John," she said after dinner.

"Yes, my dear."

"Is the drinking water at your office flavored with cloves?"—Buffalo Express.

Anger is a pure waste of vitality. It helps nobody and hinders everybody. It is always foolish and always disgraceful.

MEDIATORS ARE HOPEFUL.

Efforts to Settle Dispute Between Certain Roads and Employes.

Washington, June 25.—The outcome of the mediation negotiations in the controversy between practically all of the railroads in the territory south of the Potomac and east of the Mississippi and their conductors and trainmen seems problematical. It is understood that the situation has reached a critical stage and that there is no assurance of a peaceful settlement.

Chairman Knapp, of the Interstate Commerce Commission, and Dr. Chas. P. Neill, Commissioner of Labor, the mediators under the Erdman Act, have been endeavoring to settled the dispute for the past ten days. The matter is a stubborn one, but the fact that negotiations are still continuing seems to indicate that the mediators are hopeful. Asked today, however, if they expected a peaceful settlement, they declined to express any opinion whatever.

The demands of the men are large increases in wages and numerous changes in working conditions.

"Berlin, Germany, U. S."

"Say, is this letter addressed right?" asked a subject of Germany, holding up an elaborately decorated envelope before the eyes of a postman the other day. The latter surveyed the writing closely. There were a name, a street and then the city and country, "Berlin, Germany." Below were written in bold characters the letters "U. S." "Oh, you don't want 'U. S.' on there," remarked the postman. "Berlin, Germany, isn't in the United States." "I don't mean United States by 'U. S.,'" remarked the man from Kaiser Wilhelm's land. "I mean 'up stairs.' This friend of mine lives on the second floor."—Buffalo Commercial.

His Little Pun.

An inveterate wit and punster asked the captain of a craft loaded with boards how he managed to get dinner on the passage.

"Why," replied the skipper, "we always cook aboard."

"Cook a board, do you?" rejoined the wag. "Then I see you have been well provided with provisions this trip, at all events."—London Graphic.

Hoot Awa', Mon.

An English clergyman, talking one day with a Scottish brother of the cloth, remarked facetiously, "Well, David, I believe, after all has been said, that my head could hold two of yours."

"Mon," returned the other, with ready wit, "I never tocht before that your head was sae empty."—Boston Transcript.

Progressing.

"How are you getting on as a newspaper artist?"

"Rapidly. They now allow me to draw the crosses showing where the tragedy occurred."—Cleveland Leader.

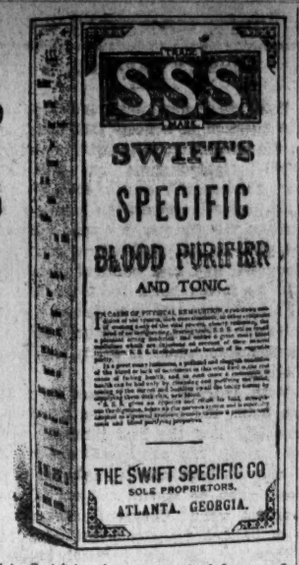
S.S.S. CURES BLOOD TROUBLES



We have never claimed S. S. S. to be a medicine to work wonders, nor one that would cure every ailment of mankind; but we do know it to be a specific for those disorders originating from impure or diseased blood. When we say this medicine cures blood troubles we are stating a fact which is corroborated by the experience of thousands, and doubtless there are persons in your locality who know its value as a blood medicine because they have used it, or heard of its being used, with success.

Our bodies are absolutely dependent on pure blood for health. This fluid is the most vital force of life, and as long as it remains pure we are apt to escape disease, but any impurity, humor or poison acts injuriously on the system and affects some portion of the body.

Pustular eruptions, pimples, rashes, and the various skin affections, show that the blood is in a feverish and diseased condition as the result of some humor, or the presence of a fiery acid which inflames and irritates the delicate fibres and tissues. Rheumatism comes from an excess of uric acid in the circulation, causing soreness and stiffness of the muscles and joints, while Catarrh, Sores and Ulcers, Scrofula, and Contagious Blood Poison are all deep-seated blood disorders which will continue to grow worse as long as the cause remains.

Gentlemen:—S. S. S. is a good medicine. It is an excellent tonic to give appetite and energy and make one feel better in every way. I have found it also an excellent blood purifier. For months I was troubled with an itching skin eruption on the face, and tried specialists and many remedies to get a cure, but S. S. S. is the only medicine that would cure. I am now free of this eruption. I think a great deal of your medicine, knowing it to be the best blood purifier and tonic known to the world today.
MRS. FRANK HORNER.
1330 East Seventh St., Canton, O.

From childhood I was afflicted with a terrible blood disease. My parents had me treated by a number of physicians, but the disease was too much for them. Thus I grew into manhood, handicapped by a terrible disease; and having tried so many remedies without relief, a friend urged me to try S. S. S. I had little faith in any medicine. I was happy to find, however, that I had at last gotten the right remedy. S. S. S. did me so much good that I soon had hopes of being cured. I continued the remedy and was cured completely. CHARLES GLENN.
2625 Wash. St., Mt. Jackson, Ind.

S. S. S. is a natural blood purifier and tonic. It is made entirely of the pure juices and extracts of roots, herbs and barks of recognized curative ability, and being absolutely free from all harmful minerals is a safe medicine for young or old. S. S. S. goes down into the circulation and removes every trace of impurity, humor or poison. It purifies and enriches the blood and cures promptly and permanently Rheumatism, Catarrh, Sores and Ulcers, Scrofula, Skin Diseases, Contagious Blood Poison, and all other diseases and disorders due to impurities and poisons in the blood, whether inherited or acquired.

S. S. S. is the most reliable and at the same time the most pleasant acting medicine for those whose blood has become weak and anaemic, or who are suffering from Malaria or other debilitating sickness. It adds strength to the circulation, builds up failing health, and in every way acts as a bracing, healthful tonic to the system. We will be glad to send a general treatise on the blood, and any medical advice necessary to the treatment, free to all who write describing the trouble from which they are suffering. S. S. S. is for sale at all drug stores.

Sunday, June 26, 1910.

A woman's magazine insists that men ought to learn to cook. Men could never do that, for they can't even learn how to bring in the wood.

One good sign of a Democrat is when you see a man who can't keep on his shirt while the political pot begins to sing in its perfunctory ebullitions.

A contemporary in discussing the probability of utilizing aeroplanes in war, inquires: "Shall we fight in aeroplanes?" We should say not. It makes our head swim to get up any higher than ten feet above ground.

New York, Philadelphia, Chicago, St. Paul and other Northern cities have been sweltering in heat, with the temperature ranging in the neighborhood of 100. Why don't they come to Wilmington and sleep under cover at Wrightsville Beach?

Well, it's to break loose in Georgia again. The Hon. Hoke Smith will again make the race against Governor Brown, who beat Smith in a mutually vituperative campaign two years ago. The peace commission should be ready to camp in Georgia.

A law providing a fine not exceeding $500 for using "cuss" words or other language calculated to provoke a breach of peace, has gone into effect in Virginia. That simply compels a Virginian to restrain his anger till he can go home and take it out on his negligible cook.

President Taft appears to be pleased with everything that Congress did to his bills—even to the tariff act that has no resemblance to what the President promised. No doubt Congress appreciates the compliment which the President pays it by not insisting that his bills could not be improved upon.

A dispatch from Washington says several of the Ballinger-Pinchot investigating committee are anxious to remain in Washington "to weigh the evidence before the committee and to make a report." Short weight is sure to be reported unless the scales are scrutinized by that man Parr who caught the Sugar Trust doing some light-weight tricks.

The Republicans succeeded in extracting the principal teeth from the campaign publicity bill passed by Congress a few days ago. The Democrats wanted an effective measure that required publicity of amounts and names of contributors before and after elections, but the Republicans were in the majority and won for publicity after the deed has been committed. This shows who wanted the kind of publicity that comes too late to hurt.

Some politicians who have filed charges against others have had worse things proven on them. We have long and painfully and fruitlessly labored to induce men to live up to the admonition contained in a hoary old adage of peculiar and personal interest to those whose houses are constructed out of vitrified material. Nevertheless, notwithstanding, let a wise man withhold his verdict till the prosecuting witness proves that he cannot be discredited.

Congressmen Small, Pou, Kitchin (Claude), Webb and Page have no opposition for the Democratic nomination in their districts. The other two Democratic districts are the Sixth where Mr. Godwin is up against four contestants, and the Third, in which Mr. Thomas, while only receptive, is opposed by three lancers. The other three districts are Republican, represented by Messrs. Morehead, Cowles and Grant, but Democrats are engaged in ouster proceedings that may eliminate them this Fall.

AN AROUSED FAITH.

Germany boasts of the learning of her scholars, and the idea has gone abroad, and is quite general, that the masses of her people had given up Christianity. It has for many years been counted as the stronghold of rationalism, destructive criticism, and infidelity. We note, however, in the Missionary Review of the World that the Christian people of Berlin and surrounding country have been aroused, as never before, perhaps, by a lecture delivered before the "Monist Club", by one Professor Drews, who declared that no such person as Jesus Christ of the gospels, ever lived. This declaration from this self-conceited and very learned professor, caused the anti-Christians of the great city to applaud exultantly.

The noisy taunts of the agnostics, infidels, and higher-critics, aroused the quiet Christians, and caused them to rally for the largest religious demonstration that has ever been seen in the city of Berlin. Some of the leading Christians, ministers and laymen, called conferences in the various parts of the city and decided to have a grand Christian rally, or mass meeting, which was called for February 20, 1910. This meeting was held in the great Circus Busch, and the motto was: "Jesus Lives." The Circus Busch, which easily accommodates 8,000 people, was crowded to 12,000. The streets were filled with other thousands, who quietly went to the great space in front of the royal palace, crowding it with an improvised meeting. Baron von Loebell, Police Commissioner, presided at the Circus Busch where addresses were made by prominent laymen and ministers.

In front of the royal palace, the president of the Y. M. C. A., von Roth Kirch, presided, and deeply spiritual addresses were made by very prominent men who very rarely took any active part in Christian work. In both places, devout prayers ascended to the Throne of Grace, soul-stirring hymns were sung, and living oratory testified to the reality and power of the Living Christ. In the Lust garten in front of the royal palace, more than 20,000 voices sung the grand old German hymns. Then the doors of the great cathedral were thrown wide open, and the great multitude, still singing, quickly filled every corner of the spacious building, and the rich and the poor, the laborer and the merchant, the educated and the illiterate mingled together, one in Jesus Christ the Risen Lord. There a service of thanksgiving and praise to Almighty God was held in the name of Him who lives and makes intercession for His people.

The German daily press recognized the importance of this mighty demonstration, as showing that the German masses are not so tainted with infidelity as the learned professor would have the public to believe.

TIT FOR TAT.

Colonel Bryan is getting roasted and called such names as "selfish marplot", "dog in the manger," etc., etc., because he "attacks Democrats." and "opposes Democrats who are not to his liking."

The Nebraskan is merely giving us "tit for tat". Most of us have jibed and roasted him and we like to see him strike fire and hit back. If he didn't monkey with party affairs and be a true blue one day and a knocker the next, or whenever he took a notion, he would not be like other Democrats. The fact is, he knows his rights and is exercising them like any every-day Democrat.

For many moons the same press which now resents the Bryan objurgations has constantly nagged at the Peerless, and he is now returning the compliment. We rather expected it, and in fact we were afraid "the worm would turn." We feared that he would hit blow for blow and fire back shot for shot. We had an idea that he would exercise the same prerogative that every other Democrat has been exercising towards him. While we greatly admire Col. Bryan in many respects, we have taken liberties with him in these columns in a playful way and more seriously but respectfully when we couldn't agree with him, but we admire his spunk when he shows us that he can "come back."

We see no use of abusing Col. Bryan for doing the very thing his critics have done and keep on doing. If the Nebraskan were to tamely submit we would take him for a Mugwump, but as a matter of fact, he is showing his Democratic feathers. People who scratched Bryan and Bryan candidates because they were not Democrats according to their liking, certainly must grant him the privilege of scratching their kind of Democrats. We are truly sorry to observe that it is a game two can play at, and the Peerless can play it as good as anybody else. He is playing it and he is simply handing out what has been handed out to him. He is giving out the deal as it was dealt out to him. Why not? What is a few reflections, accusations, aspersions, maledictions and excoriations among Democrats anyhow? He can "lay on McDuff" all he wants to, for haven't we been "laying on McDuff" whenever we got good and ready?

We believe in taking our medicine like a man.

HONESTY PARAMOUNT.

Evidence accumulates to indicate that the question of honesty and integrity is the paramount issue in this country. Civic righteousness as well as personal integrity overshadows all political issues. Arouse the honest citizens of this country and send men of integrity to the Legislatures and the Congress, and then political problems will be solved honestly at the hands of men whose aim is to get at a just solution without regard to political partisanship, which is blind, rank and foolish.

With patriots and honest men at the helm, the country need not have any fear that the best interests will be served. The people will not dread to see the Legislatures meet, nor will the Nation be fearful and capital be alarmed when Congress assembles with its heterogeneous gathering of statesmen, patriots, political bigots, arrant demagogues, interest-serving poltroons, unprincipled crooks, National knaves, inherent grafters, trickster politicians, constitutional cranks, and well meaning incompetents.

Disclosures on all sides warn the American people that they face a serious condition of affairs. Personal integrity is bad enough, but when it gets into the people's legislative bodies and becomes a public menace and disgrace, it is time to inaugurate a movement in behalf of private and public morals. This question even overshadows the peace movement. It is not necessary here to recall the numerous instances of the disclosure of personal, corporate, State and National corruption, even permeating National official departments and legislation, but it is worth while to note the latest instance, which has created a sensation. However, we fear that it will be short-lived in the face of so much of it.

We refer to the sensation created in the Senate at Washington on Friday when Senator Gore, of Oklahoma, made the disclosure that some of the professional Indian swindlers attempted to bribe him with from $25,000 to $50,000 in order to get through Congress an unjust claim of about $3,000,000 alleged attorneys' fees involved in a shameful mulcting of Choctaw and Cherokee Indians. So intent were the Republicans to favor this claim, that Senator Hale led in the movement to shut off Senator Gore, so the Oklahoma Senator was forced to rush over to the House and head off final consummation of a crime about to be enacted by Congress.

The attorney involved, one J. F. McMurray, denied the charge as "absolutely false," but unfortunately the substantiating circumstance is that this extravagant claim is before Congress all right and that he cannot prove an alibi. He happened to be an intensely interested spectator and was sitting in the House gallery when Senator Gore went over from the Senate and scotched the snake in the House. He was in Washington from far away Oklahoma and his presence was to get through just such a deal as the Oklahoma Senator exposed.

As the facts of the deal are manifested and the interested party cannot fall back on an alibi, there may be something in Senator Gore's well founded suspicion that an attempt was made to grease him.

"Uncle Joe" has lived long enough to see a Republican Congress vote the Democratic ticket on the issue of Cannonism.

A New England preacher says "a man is crazy to marry." Nobody disputes that. Even the young men are crazy to marry the girls of their choice.

A dentist pulled a girl's tooth and fell in love with her and married her. He may be forced to the conclusion that one tooth less will not make so very much difference when it comes to chewing the rag.

Col. Roosevelt claims that he retired to Oyster Bay to take a rest for two months. Nevertheless, our sixpence is up on the bet that he will work overtime watching his political corks.

President Taft refused on Thursday to permit the Labor Union to be exempt from prosecution by the government under the Sherman Act. This attitude will make the Farmers' Union sit up and take notice.

CURRENT COMMENT.

The increase of three hundred in the Democratic registration evidently means something.—Asheville Citizen.

To give publicity to campaign contributions after the election is over will be tantamount to locking the stable after the horse has been stolen. But that is the Republican idea of reform: Keep the promise in appearance; break it in substance.—Norfolk Virginian-Pilot.

"Men of the devil-enemies of God!" That's going pretty strong, isn't it? Rev. Mr. Wheeler, pastor of the Baptist church of Apex, hurled this hefty bunch of denunciation from his pulpit last Sunday straight into the faces of the "regulars" in the Wake county political row. One of the regulars, Sheriff Sears, is a member of Mr. Wheeler's congregation, too.—Durham Sun.

To indulge in the drink habit to even a small degree, one must be almost independent in this world. The time has come when a young man with the smell of so harmless a thing as near-beer on his breath need not seek employment. He is practically handicapped, for even a saloon keeper doesn't want him. That shows what the business world is doing to solve the whiskey question and the way the traffic is being forced to its proper level. Better cut it out young man.—Wadesboro Ansonian.

Come to think of it, Durham did her part in "saving the State" in the bond issue crisis. Counting the American Tobacco Company as a Durham institution (and it is), Durham bid for $1,158,000, or half of the total unsold issue, Mr. George W. Watts, General Julian S. Carr, Mr. Julian S. Carr, Jr., and the Citizens' National Bank took $25,000 each. The Fidelity Bank secured $50,000, and Mr. H. A. Foushee received $8,000. The A. T. Company bid for one million, but received only $700,000, making the total taken by Durham men and institutions $858,000.—Durham Sun.

It was proper for the North Carolina Retail Merchants' Association to have made requests on the candidates for Corporation Commissioner, as to how they stand on the matter of freight discrimination. Mr. Graham promptly responded that there is a remedy and he will pledge himself to find it. The other candidates, being out in the field, were probably not caught in time to permit of a response before the adjournment of the convention. But of course, they will reply along the line of Major Graham. It would be an absurdity for a candidate for Corporation Commissioner to make other than the reply the mechants' association expected.—Charlotte Chronicle.

The item in the Chronicle a few days ago that a Charlotte bakery had added cotton flour bread to its list of regular commercial products for the wholesale and retail trade, has been attracting much attention by the editors of the country, and they have had a good deal of comment about it. Some of them want to know if the cotton flour bread is cheaper than the wheat flour bread. It is not. A loaf of cotton flour product costs the same as a loaf of wheat flour, but we understand from the baker who is turning out the new bread that it is in very good demand, some people, not through sentimental reasons, but as a matter of taste, preferring it to the white bread. Maybe, cotton flour bread will some day become in as much demand as wheat flour bread. Who can tell? Certainly it is palatable and nutritious.—Charlotte Chronicle.

The negroes of the United States have made great progress, when their once moneyless condition is considered, in material things within the past ten years. The American Economic Association estimates the value of property owned by negroes in 1900 at $300,000,000 and the New York World thinks the census this year will show that this has been increased by $200,000,000. The Knoxville Sentinel says that "in 1900 Georgia negroes had assessed property to the amount of $14,118,720. This had grown to $27,042,672, a gain of 91 per cent. by 1908. In Virginia there has been an increase from $15,856,570 to $25,828,336, or a gain of 62 per cent. In North Carolina there was a gain of 123 per cent. or from $8,478,399 to $21,253,581.' The negro is learning the lesson that if he would accumulate he must be both thrifty and saving. The honest, industrious negro has the friendship of the Southern whites, who will continue to give him the helping hand and encourage him in his purpose to better his condition. That he has accumulated so much is as gratifying as it is surprising.—Salisbury Post.

With the exception of Wake county, North Carolina politics is probably nowhere at whiter heat than in the Sixth Congressional District, but the people thereabouts are by no means confining their attention to the primary contests. The contiguous counties of Robeson and Bladen are very much interested in the progress of the Virginia & Carolina Southern Railroad, which will shortly be completed to connect Lumberton and Elizabethtown, the respective county seats. A banquet celebrating the closer linking of the two counties was recently held in Lumberton, and the account of the proceedings as given in The Robesonian indicates that the guests were fully alive to the significance of the event. The railroads immediately concerned in the development of the section, in addition to the one just named, are the Raleigh & Charleston and the Seaboard Air Line; and representatives of each spoke freely of plans now under consideration looking to the future upbuilding of Robeson and Bladen counties. Lumberton will be greatly benefitted by the operation of the new line, and its citizens spoke in no uncertain terms in commenting upon that fact. The Robesonian relates that as a closing feature the banqueters attempted to sing "Auld Lang Syne" and alleged that the old tune was simply butchered in the attempt. Whether prominent Lumbertonians can keep the key of "Auld Lang Syne" or not is a matter of which The Robesonian should be an excellent judge, but there can be no question that they know how to keep the key of the advance which is being enjoyed by the whole State.—Charlotte Observer.

WASHINGTON NEWS NOTES.

Improved Streets—Tobacco Warehouse—Baby Show.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Washington, N. C., June 24.—The preliminary work of breaking ground on the streets of the city for paving are now in full blast. A force of between 30 and 40 men under the direction of Mr. D. B. Packard, city engineer, are making the necessary excavations, etc., for the curbing and gutters. The necessary material for this work has arrived on two large barges and the curbing and 18 inches of gutter will be composed of concrete, moulded in position. The citizens recently voted on and passed a bond issue of $25,000 for street improvements and when the work of paving these streets is completed Washington will have some of the best streets of any town in the State.

Work on Washington's new tobacco warehouse is progressing at a rapid rate and Contractor M. M. Jones hopes to have it completed by the first of August. The building is situated on Pierce street between Fourth and Fifth, and is 94x200 feet and it will have a capacity of 150,000 pounds of tobacco. In addition to the main building there will be a bunk house 16x20 feet and 32 stables.

Washington's annual baby show took place in this city today. Beginning in front of the Episcopal church on Bonner street a parade was formed consisting of many handsomely decorated floats composed of baby carriages, which traversed a number of the principal streets of the city and ended at the lawn of the Methodist church, where light refreshments were served. The baby parade and show was given under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society of the Methodist church and for the benefit of the infant class. A number of prizes were given the various contestants, for the most elaborate float in the parade, prettiest baby, etc.

The local produce market in this city has almost reached stagnant prices. Irish potatoes were selling at from 40 to 50 cents per barrel today with practically no demand. The cucumber crop has been much below the average so far but as a rule prices are good.

New York, June 25.—Arthur Devlin, third baseman for the New York National Club, who was indefinitely suspended last night by President Lynch, was arraigned today in Brooklyn charged with assault on Bernard J. Roessler. He pleaded not guilty and was paroled until July 1 for a further hearing. Roessler also has begun a civil action for $5,000 damages against Devlin.

NORTH CAROLINA ARCHITECTS

Fourth Annual Meeting Will be Held at Wrightsville Beach First Few Days of July—Programme Announced.

Arrangements have practically been completed for the fourth annual meeting of the North Carolina Architectural Association, which will be held at Seashore Hotel, Wrightsville Beach, Friday, Saturday and Monday, July 1st, 2nd and 4th, and the features of the gathering were announced yesterday morning by Mr. Joseph F. Leitner, of this city, president of the association.

The convention will bring to the beach something like one hundred visitors, some of whom will arrive as early as Thursday. In addition to the members of the association, there will be architects in attendance from South Carolina, Georgia, Florida and Virginie, besides representatives of manufacturers of building materials. The architects will have a fine art exhibit consisting of water color work, sketches and photographs of buildings erected by them. This will be the most complete exhibit of the kind in the history of the organization. Manufacturers of building materials of various kinds have asked for and been granted the privilege of having an exhibit in the assembly hall of the Seashore Hotel to demonstrate their wares. These exhibits will be open to the public.

The association is now four years old and is composed of a majority of the leading architects of North Carolina. Mr. Leitner has been president of the association for two years. Mr. Frank K. Thomson, of Raleigh, is vice president, and Mr. Franklin Gordon, of Charlotte, is secretary and treasurer. The following compose the board of directors; Messrs. Joseph F. Leitner, Wilmington; Frank K. Thomson, Raleigh; William H. Lord, Asheville; Oliver D. Wheeler, Charlotte; Franklin Gordon, Charlotte.

Two sessions will be held daily, one in the morning and the other in the afternoon. A number of papers of interest to the architects will be read and there will be numerous short addresses and discussions. Among the important business matters is the annual election of officers.

Among the social functions planned is a smoker at the Seashore Hotel Saturday night, July 3rd, and deep sea fishing Monday, July 4th. The architects will probably be taken for a trip down the Cape Fear river on the steamer Wilmington during their visit here.

A number of draftsmen in the employ of architects of the association have contributed cartoons which will be published in the catalogue which will contain a list of the work on exhibition by the different architects.

Local architects have every reason to believe that the approaching meeting will be the most successful in the four years of the life of the organization.

NEW HANOVER'S CANDIDATE

Strong Endorsement of McClammy for Congress by Business Men of His City—His Eminent Qualifications.

The following strong presentation and endorsement was given out yesterday afternoon:

To the Democratic Voters of the Sixth Congressional District:

Government is public business, and public business should be administered in the most practical, economical, and efficient manner. If government is public business, the public should take care to select agents competent to administer public affairs in the most capable manner.

Title of office means little—the incumbent means much.

There are embraced within this district a great variety of industrial and commercial interests, and the possibility of relief from transportation inequalities can be more surely effected through governmental aid in this district than in any district in the State, and through this medium benefit made to accrue to the entire State.

Appreciating the importance of efficient public service, and realizing that efficiency is best secured through a trained mind and industrious habits, the undersigned business men of Wilmington respectfully present the name of Mr. Herbert McClammy as New Hanover's choice for Congress.

Mr. McClammy is a lawyer of large practice and wide experience. He has made a distinct success of his profession and enjoys a lucrative practice. His success in life is a guarantee of his ability and an assurance of his disposition to make an honorable and useful record in Congress. We speak from personal knowledge of the man, and believe that his industry will serve every interest of the district and his ambition inspire him to take a stand which would reflect credit upon his State.

We have no criticism to make of any candidate in the field, save only to give our strong disapproval and condemnation of an unwarranted attack on an honorable competitor. The shaft in the DeVane letter recoiled upon the archer, and now quivers in his Congressional breast.

DEGREE OF MASTER OF LAWS.

Mr. Henry Heyer, of This City, Wins High Honors at Yale.

The many Wilmington friends of Mr. Henry Heyer, son of Mr. Matt J. Heyer, chairman of the Board of Audit and Finance, will be interested and pleased to learn that the degree of Master of Laws was conferred upon him last Wednesday at Yale College, where he has been a student of the law department. They will be especially pleased to know, but not surprised, that he stood third in a class of about 100 men who were working for the degree, but only 11 of whom met the requirements, he being one of that number. The New Haven, Conn., papers of Wednesday say that the law course at Yale for the last three years has been made harder each year. Mr. M. J. Heyer attended the exercises incident to the conferring of the degree upon his son, who is expected in Wilmington within the next few days. Young Mr. Heyer will receive the congratulations of his numerous Wilmington friends, who predict for him a particularly bright future in his chosen profession.

EXAMINATIONS FOR A. & M.

Applicants for admission to the A. & M. College will be examined by Prof. Catlett, county superintendent of public instruction, in his office at the Court House on Thursday, July 14th, at 9 A. M. By standing these examinations young men may save the expense of a trip to Raleigh. The A. & M. College offers 120 scholarships to bright, needy boys desiring industrial education. There are courses of instruction in agriculture, textile and engineering (civil, electrical, mechanical, chemical and mining.) White teachers for the rural schools will be examined on the same date, July 14th, and the colored teachers Friday, July 15th.

COUNTY SOLID FOR M'CLAMMY

Precinct Meetings Throughout New Hanover Yesterday for Selection of Delegates to County Convention, July 2nd.

In accordance with the Democratic Plan of Organization, as recently amended by the State Executive Committee, and pursuant to call issued officially by Chairman John J. Furlong, of the Democratic County Executive Committee, on June 4th, precinct meetings were held throughout New Hanover yesterday and last night, at the county precincts at noon and in the wards of the city last night, for the purpose of electing delegates to the County Convention to be held at the Court House on Saturday, July 2nd.

The only interest manifested was in the Congressional race, New Hanover having stood solidly by its "favorite son," Herbert McClammy, Esq., for whom a solid delegation was sent to the convention. If any of the other candidates have strength in the county, it failed to develop at the precinct meetings either in the city or country. There were no contests and the various meetings acted with singular unanimity.

In the first ward the meeting was held in the hall over the Fourth Street huckster market. Mr. W. L. West was called to the chair and B. M. Jones was requested to act as secretary. After stating the object of the meeting, the chairman called the vote for delegates to the county convention and the following were unanimously chosen: John Barry, W. L. West, W. C. Boesch, C. A. Turley, J. B. Elkins, R. L. Harker, John W. Blomme, S. A. Greelish, P. J. Breen, W. F. Jones, R. L. Weaver, T. C. Dickinson, C. F. W. Rehder, W. H. Cox, C. McD. Jones and B. M. Jones.

The Second Ward met at police headquarters in the City Hall and organized by electing ex-Mayor Wm. E. Springer chairman and F. W. Bonitz, Esq., secretary. Upon the vote for delegates to the convention the following were elected unanimously: W. E. Springer, Martin Newman, M. J. Heyer, W. H. Sprunt, Jos. E. Thompson, T. W. Wood, David Rountree, Dr. C. D. Bell, Leon Corbett, R. G. Rankin, Paul Bell, Joe D. Smith, E. H. Sneed.

The Third Ward meeting was held in the Mayor's office at the City Hall, Mr. L. B. Rogers having been called to the chair and Mr. Jas. H. Taylor, Jr., secretary. The following were unanimously elected as delegates: Marsden Bellamy, W. P. M. Turner, S. J. Ellis, W. B. Cooper, H. L. Fennell, L. B. Rogers, Walker Taylor, Hugh Wallace, George Howell, C. D. Weeks, Joe Yates, Gilbert Foard, J. H. Taylor, Jr., John J. Furlong, Geo. H. Hutaff, L. Stein, J. C. Morrison.

Upon motion of Mr. W. B. Cooper the following motion was unanimously adopted by a rising vote in compliment to Mr. McClammy, who is a resident of the third ward:

"The Democratic Primary Convention of the third ward unanimously passed the following resolutions:

Whereas the Sixth District Congressional Convention will be held on the 21st day of July at our Summer resort, Wrightsville Beach, at which time there will be nominated a Congressman to represent the Cape Fear section of the Old North State, and whereas,

The County of New Hanover City of Wilmington are the financial and business centre of the sixth district, having an annual commerce of seventy-five million dollars and banking resources of fourteen million dollars, and whereas the City of Wilmington is the Gateway for the commerce of our State, being the largest city in the State and the natural port of entry for the immense volume of business that the opening of the Panama canal will bring to the Southern States, and whereas,

We have an all abiding faith in the future of our city, in her progress and development (and through her in the advancement of the whole State) in our own people and our neighboring counties, now therefore we do most heartily endorse the candidacy of our townsman Hon. Herbert McClammy for Congressman for this district.

"Herbert," as he is familiarly called by those who know him since his boyhood days spent on his father's farm in Pender county, is most lavishly endowed by nature for the roll of a public official. He has been honored by our citizens with many positions of trust and is at present our most efficient city attorney.

He is a staunch Democrat, cradled in the lap of a Democratic family, reared by a sterling old war horse Democratic father, (who was himself honored with two terms in Congress) and for all the years of his life Herbert has stood by the faith, in the sunshine of victory or the gloom of defeat, always ready and anxious to leap into the fray and battle for the cause of the right and Democracy.

His learning and legal ability are well known, for he ranks as our most successful criminal lawyer and enjoys a highly lucrative civil practice.

As a public speaker he is forcible and eloquent, being thoroughly conversant with both State and National politics.

While disparaging no other candidate we feel that the business, financial, farming and industrial interests will find in him a man who is thoroughly qualified to represent them with intelligence and ability and to get results.

Therefore we present his name as one who never turned his back but marched breast forward.

Never doubted clouds would break. Never dreamed though right were worsted, wrong would triumph, one who holds we fall to rise, are baffled to fight better."

The fifth ward voters assembled in the county court room at the Court House and Geo. L. Peschau, Esq., was called to the chair and George Harriss, Esq., to act as secretary. Hicks was appointed to retire and nominate delegates to the convention, the committee a little later having returned with the following, who were unanimously elected: Walter G. MacRae, B. O. Stone, H. McL. Green, J. O. Carr, A. G. Ricard, Walter E. Yopp, Geo. L. Peschau, Robt. Ruark, T. W. Davis, Geo. Harriss, P. Q. Moore.

In the rural districts the precinct meetings were held at noon except in Federal Point, where no meeting was held. The only one present at the hour for the meeting was Mr. Melvin Horne, who is a member of the County Democratic Executive Committee from that township, and as the Democratic plan of organization provides that where no meeting is held the delegate or delegates shall be named by the Executive Committee it is presumed that Mr. Horne will represent or name some one to represent Federal Point at the convention next Saturday. TRUTHS, NEW AND OLD Series of Expository Sermons by the Rev. C. H. Sweet.

(Communicated.)

When Christ had finished the parables grouped in the 30th chapter of St. Matthew, He inquired: "Have ye under stood all these things They say unto him, yea Lord. Then said He unto them, Therefore every scribe which is instructed unto the kingdom of heaven is like until a man that is an householder, which bringeth forth out of his treasure things new and old." Mat. 13:51,52 The duty of the minister is here made plain. He is the scribe of the church. His relation to the house of God is similar to that sustained by the head of a household. The father distributes from his well-stored treasury according to the necessities of each member of the family.

Rev. C. H. Sweet, pastor of the Fourth and Church Streets Advent Christian Church, because of the foregoing and other scripture declarations, believes that the Christian minister should be so instructed in the things of the kingdom of heaven, that he can feed the Church of God, with truth familiar and new, and ...at is why he has devoted much time to the study of "Christ's Parabolic Teachings," and is now giving a series of expository sermons upon that subject. Today at 11 A. M. he discourses upon the Parable of the Wheat and Tares, and at 8 P. M. will take for his subject the "Parable of the Mustard Seed." Come and be both instructed and helped either in your spiritual life, or in your desire for such a life.

Will Improve Colored Church.

The Shiloh Baptist Church, corner of MacRae and Walnut streets, is to be remodeled and otherwise improved to the extent of about $4,500, a permit for which has been issued from the office of Building Inspector H. E. Bonitz. The building is of wood, but will be incased in brick. The congregation will have one of the handsomest and most comfortable houses of worship of any colored church in the city when the improvements are completed.

The Charlottesville Progress of a recent issue says:

"In presenting the handsome loving cup to President Alderman at the closing exercises of the University on Wednesday morning, Dr. John W. Mallet, Emeritus Professor of Chemistry, said that he had been selected by his colleagues to present to Dr. Alderman a loving cup at the conclusion of his six years of service as president of the University of Virginia; that this was a tribute from the faculty in which all had joined except three or four professors who were in far distant lands. He could, he said, more briefly and therefore better express the sentiments of his colleagues by simply reading the inscription on the cup, which was as follows: "To Edwin Anderson Alderman, first President of the University of Virginia, in grateful recognition of his devoted and efficient services to the University of Virginia in the increase of its resources, in the expansion of its work, in the enhancement of its usefulness without sacrifice of its standards or traditions, and also of his just and sympathetic attitude toward his colleagues, from the members of the Faculty of the University of Virginia, 1910."

EXCURSIONISTS SAVED.

Mississippi River Steamer Caught Fire and 1,500 Were Saved.

LaCrosse, Wis., June 25.—With 1,500 excursionists on board, the Acme Packet Company's big steamer J. S. caught fire in the Mississippi river between Genoa and Victory tonight, and although the steamer was burned to the water's edge, prompt action of Capt. Streckfus in beaching the boat when the first alarm was sounded saved every person on board.

Only one woman was injured in the mad rush from the boat to the island on which the boat was beached. The steamer brought 1,000 people from Lansing, Ia., and 500 from intermediate points to LaCrosse today, leaving here on the return trip at 6 o'clock tonight. The boat caught fire when two miles above Victory, just opposite Bad Axe Bend, the blaze breaking out in the lower works close to the boiler room. Putting on full speed, Capt. Streckfus headed the boat direct for Bad Axe island in mid-river. Before the general alarm was sounded the vessel had grounded on the sand and it was a few minutes work to get the people off the boat.

A few minutes after the steamer had been cleared of passengers and crew it was burned to the water's edge. The excursionists are stranded on an island 500 feet long and 300 feet wide. A few launches and row boats from Victory and nearby hamlets are making slow headway in getting the people to the mainland.

CLOUDBURST AT CHARLOTTE.

Damage Done to Cotton Mill—Lightning Strikes.

Charlotte, N. C., June 25.—Between 6:30 to 7 o'clock last evening a heavy storm broke over Hoskins, west of the city doing much damage. Two houses were struck by lightning, one being occupied by Mr. Morton and family; the other being unoccupied. No one was injured. A cow belonging to Mr. Simpson, was killed; also one belonging to Mr. Norton. The cows were in the open field when struck. Several trees were struck, but there was no loss of life.

The rain which was in the nature of the cloudburst in the direction of Hoskins—which is west of the city—was blown in under the roof of Chadwick-Hiskin Mill No. 1, and poured through to the spinning room.

The machinery was greatly damaged, just to what extent the officers could not say today. It will all have to be cleaned before operations can be resumed. The damage in dollars and cents can not be ascertained until after the machinery is cleaned. The roof of the mill is graveled.

The rain flooded the top floor of the mill. The people living near the mill were very much frightened. The violence of the storm was terrifying. Beside the tremendous rains, the lightning was most vivid.

Not Sisters

Now and again you see two women passing down the street who look like sisters. You are astonished to learn that they are mother and daughter, and you realize that a woman at forty or forty-five ought to be at her finest and fairest. Why isn't it so?

The general health of woman is so intimately associated with the local health of the essentially feminine organs that there can be no red cheeks and round form where there is female weakness.

Women who have suffered from this trouble have found prompt relief and cure in the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It gives vigor and vitality to the organs of womanhood. It clears the complexion, brightens the eyes and reddens the cheeks.

YOU'LL find that its poor policy to shop around in buying clothes; to go where you see the lowest price quoted. Price doesn't mean much in clothes unless yon know what the quality of the goods is.

If you govern your buying by the price you pay without reference to what you get for it, you'll find some mighty cheap clothes for sale; their cheapness is likely to be more in quality than in price. But you'll find plenty of good clothes, too;

COTTON MARKET WAS STEADY

Principal Feature of Market Yesterday—Very Quiet Throughout Day—Liverpool Influenced by Reports of Rain.

New York, June 25.—The cotton market was very quiet today, there being nothing apparently in the news to induce fresh operations of any consequence for over the week-end while the scattering interest had probably even up pretty closely earlier in the week. The close was quiet and steady, net 1 to 5 points lower. The market opened steady at an advance of 2 points on July but generally unchanged to 3 points in sympathy with lower cables and the rather more favorable weather in May.

The showers reported in Texas were characterized by private advices as to light and scattering, however, to materially modify the drouth situation, and with private condition reports indicating a deterioration during the past month in the Carolinas there was comparatively little cotton for sale. A small demand was all that was required, consequently and after July had eased off in keeping with the rest of the list the market showed little further movement or feature.

Private cables indicated that Liverpool had been influenced by reports of rain in Texas and these reports seemed to offset the bullish showing of the week-end figures in the absence of any urgent trade demand as futures were a little under expectation and the English spot sales were small. There was nothing to indicate that the passing of the Scott bill by the House of Representatives yesterday was to have any influence on either the volume of business or the course of prices. People in the local trade have expected the passage in the House, but are evidently confident that it will not pass the Senate, and the dull trade of today was attributed to the usually restrictive influence of the week-end adjournment at a season when weather conditions are of prime importance. Moreover, next week is one of the many uncertainties as Tuesday is the first July notice day, the July bureau is due on Friday, and all markets will be closed from Friday until the following Tuesday morning.

Receipts at the ports today 4,613 bales against 3,427 last week and 4,009 last year; for the week 25,000 against 23,318 last week and 31,138 last year. Today's receipts at New Orleans 2,992 bales against 616 last year, and at Houston 716 bales against 331 last year.

Spot market closed dull, 5 points higher on the basis of 15.10 for middling and 15.35 for middling gulf. Sales 384 bales. Futures opened steady and closed quiet.

A DULL DAY FOR COTTON.

Steadiness Was Only Feature on the Market—Crop Conditions.

(Special Star Telegram.)

New York, June 25.—The market has been dull and uninteresting, with steadiness the only feature. No general business and little local interest. Crop conditions are favorable, and while rain would not be amiss in parts of Texas, the danger point is not at hand from lack of moisture, as yet.

Prices are very steady under the influence of the old crop deliveries, which are well held. Interest in July is diminishing, with the approach of notice days, and the spot holders are masters of that position.

THE GRAIN MARKET.

Chicago, June 25.—Drought damage to Spring wheat in the northwest was today declared irreparable for at least a quarter of the crop. An expert for one of the leading firms here made the assertion in a telegram from Hillsboro, N. D. Pessimistic reports from investigators for other prominent houses joined in causing unusually active buying for a week-end session. In consequence the close was strong at practically the high price of the day with net gains of 1 1-4 to 1 3-4. The close in corn showed an advance of 1-4 to 1-2 and in oats a shade to 1-8. Provisions finished unchanged to 5c higher.

DRY GOODS MARKET.

New York, June 26.—The dry goods markets were quiet and without special change for the day. Trading continues generally light and along conservative lines.

STOCK MARKET STILL QUIET

Uncertain Weather Conditions Had Effect in Quieting Speculative Activity—No Commitments by Operators.

New York, June 23.—The week end in the stock market brought little disposition in the part of operators to enter on new commitments. Not only the immediate uncertainties weather conditions, Sunday in the Spring wheat States of the Northwest, but the probable recurrence of doubts over the crops due July had their effect in quieting speculative activity.

Yesterday's active selling left a residue of uncovered shorts amongst the traders, who bought moderately to cover, thus supplying a sustaining influence on prices. The easy tone of the wheat market and the reports of rains and cooler weather in the northwestern States had their part in inducing this covering movement. So, also, had the prospect that Congress was about to end its session. Net changes in prices were small at the end of the day.

The renewed pressure on stocks before the close was due partly to next week's money prospect. Confidence remains unimpaired that a season of great ease of money is to follow.

The bank statement failed to show the expected gain in cash in the actual figures. Moreover, an actual loan increase by the clearing house banks of $14,644,100 and an expansion in the loan averages of over banks by $6,714,000 disclosed the working of demands for credits outside the dull stock market of the week. Preparation for the July settlements and several important bond operations which have gone through during the week must be looked to for explanation.

Bonds were steady. Total sales par value $465,000. United States 3s have declined 1-2 per cent. in the big price on call since last week. Total sales for the day were 311,400 shares.

A THWARTED PLOT.

By LAURENCE FOSTER CHURCH.

[Copyright, 1909, by American Press Association.]

Not far from the close of the eighteenth century there lived in a small town in New Jersey—it is now a city—Raymond Doane, a man very much respected and of a peaceful disposition. His house stood near the main street or road, considerable grounds behind and on either side of it. On the lot next adjoining lived Samuel Whitford, who was Doane's antipode. If he but once conceived a grudge against any one he would pursue him to the bitter end. He quarreled with nearly every one in the town, and there was none to speak a good word for him but Raymond Doane, who always stood for peace and constantly endeavored to allay the prejudice against his neighbor.

But one day a horse of Doane's got into Whitford's premises and destroyed a lot of vegetables growing in the garden. Though Doane offered to make suitable reparation, Whitford would not be pacified. From that time he made the lives of Mr. Doane and his family miserable and went so far as to injure one of Doane's children he found on his grounds. This was too much even for the quiet Mr. Doane's patience. Meeting Whitford, he protested. Whitford attacked him, but Doane, being the better man, got him down and rubbed his nose in the dirt.

After this the Doanes expected worse treatment than before, but Whitford let them alone and finally surprised them by offering the olive branch. It was accepted, but without confidence.

Mr. Doane had a man doing unimportant jobs about his place named Silas Moore, who had received an injury in childhood which had impaired his intellect. One night Silas was heard screaming "Murder!" in the back of Mr. Doane's place. Doane got up and went out to see what was the matter. He found no one and went back to bed. Silas was not again seen in the town.

Mr. Doane reported what he had heard, and there was much wonderment in the matter. Whitford said nothing for some time, then intimated that he might say a great deal were it not that the people were all against him and would not believe him. This got to the ears of the authorities, and Whitford was called upon to give testimony. With apparent unwillingness he said that on the night in question hearing the cries, he had got up and gone to the rear of his yard. The cries had then ceased. Whitford was about to return to the house when he saw a figure through the darkness dragging some object. He followed and saw the figure dig a hole, into which he thrust what he had been dragging, filled the hole and spent much time destroying the marks of the ground's disturbance. Whitford followed the figure and saw it go into Doane's back door.

No citizen of the place would have paid any attention to this story, but the police, of course, must visit the spot and examine it. Whitford led them, and after digging in several places they came upon a corpse so disfigured that they could tell nothing about it except that it was about Silas' height and the hair was the same color.

The matter now passed into the courts, and Doane was arrested for the murder of his hired man. The clothing on the corpse was examined, and several pieces were found to have belonged to Silas. Though the body was unrecognizable, the clothing proved conclusively that Silas had been murdered. Whitford's evidence was not sufficient to convict Doane, but a stranger appeared at the trial who swore that he had driven into the town late on the night of the murder and had heard angry words in Doane's barn. He had reined in his horse to listen and saw two figures walk to the back of Doane's place. Then he had heard the cries and had gone and seen what Whitford had seen from another point.

Even this would not have convicted Doane before a jury of his fellow townsmen, but the prosecuting attorney, realizing this, took a change of venue and tried him elsewhere. The result was that the peace loving Mr. Doane was convicted of the murder of his half witted servant. In this, as in every mysterious murder case, there were those who believed in the guilt of the one being tried for it and those who did not so believe.

A hanging in those days was open to the view of every one. From daylight till noon on the day the culprit was to be swung off all sorts of vehicles were driven into town loaded with people. The condemned man was brought forth and given an opportunity to speak, which he declined. The noose was being adjusted when some one in the crowd cried:

"Hold on!"

Every eye was turned to the speaker, who was pointing in a certain direction. There, gaping with the rest of the crowd, stood the man who had been murdered—the fool Silas Moore.

That ended the hanging, or, rather, it never took place, and the supposed murderer was carried home on the shoulders of his friends.

Silas Moore when questioned told how Whitford had persuaded him to enact the murder scene at night and then had hurried him away where he supposed he would be safe. The stranger witness had been paid for his testimony. It also came out that Whitford had procured a corpse, made its face unrecognizable, put Silas' clothes on it and buried it.

Whitford made good his escape and was never heard of again in America.

The Next Thing to It.

After much reconnoitering and strategy the leader of the wandering "German band" succeeded in gaining an interview with the proprietor of the fashionable restaurant.

"But, my man," expostulated the latter, noticing the seedy appearance of the dusty musicians, "I don't see how I can use your talent. Why, we only engage orchestras direct from Hungary."

"Vell, ve vas der nexd ding to it," responded the leader, without a smile.

"The next thing to it?"

"Yah, mein herr. Ve vas nod an orchestra from Hungary yed, but ve vas a hungry orchestra."

will not request the Governor to become a candidate for a third term. He will present the situation as it is, leaving it to the Governor to decide, after he has learned Col. Roosevelt's views, whether or not he should retract his positive statements that he will not accept another nomination, sacrifice his place on the bench of the Supreme Court and go back into harness for two years more at Albany. Such a decision would carry with it a full understanding that in the event of a Republican defeat, Gov. Hughes would find himself with neither a seat on the bench nor in the executive chamber.

It is known that Col. Roosevelt favors some sort of primary reform legislation, although he has not had an opportunity to study the various plans that have been proposed, and, therefore, has not decided which of them, or if any of them, meets with his approval.

Col. Roosevelt was asked if he had not invited a number of political leaders, both "regulars" and "insurgents" to accept his hospitality.

"With the exception of Governor Hughes," he answered, "I have invited no one here except to make social visits."

"Shall you see President Taft at Beverly when you go to Cambridge for the Harvard commencement next week?"

"I don't know," was his only reply.

The colonel had at lunch today 13 guests, ten of whom were from Peoria, Ill., with an invitation from Archbishop Spalding asking him to speak to the Knights of Columbus at Peoria on Columbus Day, October 12th. The colonel hoped he might find it possible to accept.

The other guests were Dr. Hart Merrian, an old friend of the family; Henry L. Stimson, prosecutor for the government in the sugar fraud trials, and a Mr. Sheldon, a hunter of big game in Alaska.

The newspaper men were ushered into the library where they found a room in confusion, littered with thousands of unopened letters, and hundreds of books sent by publishers and friends, with still other hundreds of magazines, all unread.

"I want you newspaper men to make it clear that it is utterly impossible for one man to cope with all this mail," said the colonel.

"If every man, woman and child in the United States, who has been writing to me were to stop writing today," he continued, "it would take me six months with clerical assistance to answer them all. Probably there are many letters here from close personal friends, but it is impossible for me to separate the important from the unimportant. I a getting the mail of the White House and I have not the White House staff to dispose of it."

Columbia, June 25.—The Atlantic Coast Line withraws from the contract to move the third regiment to Chicamauga, July 11th, thus disarranging all plans for the transfer of the troops. The Southern does not think it can undertake to handle both second and third that regiments may encamp in the State.

Gen. Boyd will invite new proposals from the railroads on the Chicamauga haul.

was a vote taken as to the choice of particular candidates, the only business being the election of delegates, therefore, it is impossible to give the political complexion. Hon. H. L. Godwin, present Congressman from this district, developed some unexpected strength in the county districts where his friends forced a vote. H. L. Cook, however, will go into the Congressional convention, it is predicted, with Cumberland solid for him. A. A. McKethan, for clerk of court, and D. Cater, for treasurer, have the strength of the county. While indications are that the fight for sheriff has narrowed down to the incumbent, M. A. Watson, and N. H. McGeachy, A. D. McGill was endorsed in his precinct for the lower house and W. L. Williams in his precinct for State Senator. In all but the extreme western part of the county the sentiment is practically unanimous against the creation of Hoke county. The fight for register of deeds is practically between Frank Marsh and Fulton R. Hall, with two other candidates in the field.

Fayetteville, N. C., June 25.—The Democratic primaries in Fayetteville tonight were the largest in years. The four precincts unanimously endorsed and instructed for Hon. Henry Lilly Cook, for Congress. The returns from the country precincts so far received show the same action. Our people are heartily for him and gave emphatic expression of their loyalty to him.

From Columbus.

Whiteville, N. C., June 25.—Incomplete returns from Columbus indicate Godwin in the lead by 60 per cent. Clark will receive about 35 per cent. the remainder being divided between McKinnon and McClammy. Judge Allen is in the lead with several precincts not heard from. The Senatorial race between McRackan and Greer is in doubt as to the outcome.

Chadbourn, N. C., June 25.—While nothing official is given out here at a late hour tonight, it is estimated that the Columbus delegation will be about evenly divided between Godwin and Clark. A great many precincts did not instruct and it is hard to forecast the relative strength of the candidates until the county convention.

In Harnett.

Dunn, N. C., June 25.—Seven out of the 13 townships heard from indicate that Godwin will receive 29 votes in the Congressional convention from Harnett to two against him.

Fayetteville, N. C., June 25.—Private advices here at a late hour tonight are that Congressman Godwin has not carried Harnett county by any means solidly. It is stated that upon a vote for endorsement of the Harnett man, the result was 36 to 86 in Dunn, home of Congressman Godwin, while Lillington township will be divided about half and half. All of Anderson Creek township is reported to have voted against Mr. Godwin. It is freely talked here tonight that Mr. Godwin will not be able to carry more than from 50 to 75 per cent. of the county with the likelihood of many contests.

In Brunswick.

Phoenix, N. C., June 25.—It was the general understanding throughout the county that no precinct meetings would be held throughout the county today, but that the voters would meet in mass convention Wednesday and make nominations. Town Creek is reported to have held a precinct meeting at which the vote stood 12 for McClammy and one for Godwin.

SCOTLAND PRIMARIES.

Vote for Manning and Allen About Eqaully Divided—County.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Laurinburg, N. C., June 25.—The primary election was held in Scotland today. Definite reports cannot be had from the various precincts. The partial reports indicate that the vote for Manning and Allen was about equal. In the Senatorial fight, Hoyle, of Lee, and London, of Chatham, received unusually large majorities. The following were without opposition; W. D. McLaurin, sheriff; C. E. Muse, register of deeds; H. H. Covington, clerk of Superior court; W. H. Weatherspoon, representative; W. G. Buie, D. C. McNeill and W. F. Parker, commissioners.

SURRY PRIMARIES.

Manning Leads for Judgeship—Congressman From the Fifth.

(Special Star Telegram.)

Winston-Salem, N. C., June 25.—Returns from the Democratic primaries in Surry county indicate that Manning has three-fourths of the county for Associate Justice of the Supreme Court and the vote for Congress will be Jones 18, Stedman 12, Royster 4 and Mebane 2. Jones carried every precinct except two.

PRIMIARIES IN UNION.

Judge Allen for Associate Justice—Lee and Brown Favored.

(Special Star Telegram.)

Monroe, June 25.—Present indications, ten precincts out of 17, Allen for Associate Justice, probably carries the county. Lee and Brown for Corporation Commissioners. R. W. Lemmond is nominated Senator from Union county.

FOR STATE OFFICES

Returns From the Primaries For Larger Offices.

(Special Star Telegram.)

Raleigh, N. C., June 25.—In Wake county the vote for Supreme Court justice to succeed J. S. Manning indicates a majority for Judge Manning for renomination of about 500 over Judge W. R. Allen. Returns from other counties show that Allen has carried, Duplin, Lenoir, Iredell, Randolph, Robeson, Anson, majority; Cherokee, Beaufort, majority; Chowan, Moore, Halifax, Johnston Hyde. Manning carries Craven, Rockingham, Montgomery, Chowan, Beaufort, majority, Madison. Quite a number of counties took no action as to Supreme Court justices.

Others have not been heard from at this hour. Returns indicate that in the contests for Corporation Commissioner H. C. Brown, has carried about everything for the nomination to the term of the late B. F. Aycock and that W. T. Lee leads for the western seat to succeed S. L. Rogers.

Raleigh, N. C., June 25.—Precinct meetings or primary elections were held in North Carolina today for Chief Justice and two Supreme Court judges, two members of the Corporation Commission, all members of the National House of Representatives, and in many counties for county officers and members of the General Assembly.

The great fight was between present Associate Justice James S. Manning, of Durham, for re-nomination and Judge W. R. Allen, of Wayne.

Returns are too meagre for an estimate. Chief Justice Clark, and Associate Justice Walker were re-nominated without opposition. For the National House of Representatives, Small, of the first district, Kitchin, of the second Pou, of the fourth, Page, of the seventh, and Webb, of the ninth, had no opposition. Thomas, of the third, a receptive candidate, appears to be leading. In the fifth, former lieutenant Governor Charles M. Stedman, of Greensboro, is leading. In the sixth, present Congressman Godwin is leading over a number of opponents. In the eighth, Walter Murphy, of Salisbury, is in the lead. In the tenth, J. M. Gudger appears to be in the lead with a number of candidates in the contest.

In Wake county, there has been a heated campaign for two months over county officers and legislative candidates, all Democrats. The fight for a clean sweep of all present officers was led by Josephus Daniels, editor News and Observer, and Democratic national committeeman, who advocated rotation in office and better business methods in county affairs. He was not a candidate for any office, and the cause he espoused won by over 300 majority, the issue being a better Democracy.

FINANCE NICARAGUA

Senator Stone Wants Investigation of Entire Affair.

Washington, June 25.—In the Senate today Senator Stone stated that he had been informed that a syndicate had been organized in the United States to exploit the finances of Nicaragua and that syndicate had been represented in Washington by a former high official of the State Department.

The Senator's statement was made in the course of a speech following the introduction of a resolution by the Senator directing the Committee on Foreign Relations to make a general investigation as to the relations between the United States and the government of Nicaragua. The resolution would direct special inquiry into the question whether the property right or lives of citizens of the United States had been in jeopardy in Nicaragua and especially "to ascertain whether any effort had been made by persons representing financial interests in the United States to refund or otherwise control the adjustment of the debt of Nicaragua and if so in what manner and to what extent any such efforts has been made and carried on."

"I have looked into this affair with care and I want to say that I have found numerous things which to me are most astounding," said Mr. Stone. "Among others, I have discovered that the government of Dr. Madriz, maintains the customary diplomatic relations with practically every government of the world except the United States, and I am unable to discover any sound reason why this government should not establish such relations.

"So far as I am informed," said Mr. Stone, "I am inclined to believe principal American interests concerned in this controversy relate to speculative advances made by certain Americans on a speculative basis to the revolutionary forces under General Estrada and still more to the point, the interest of a syndicate of American financiers and bankers, organized or provisionally organized as I am advised with a view to exploiting and funding the public debt of Nicaragua and other Central American countries, somewhat on the line upon which the debt of Santo Domingo was managed and disposed of. My information is—and I have every reason to believe information well founded—that a former high official of the State Department is the representative in Washington of that syndicate. If this story be really true, and I fear there is too much truth in it for the good of our country, then there are millions in it for somebody."

In response Chairman Cullom of the Committee on Foreign Relations said the Secretary of State had made a full and satisfactory explanation to the committee. Mr. Cullom announced his disbelief that any one connected with the State Department had been guilty of any wrong doing.

The resolution was referred to the Committee on Foreign Relations.

Washington, June 25.—The attention of Secretary Knox was drawn to the statement made on the floor of the Senate this afternoon by Senator Stone, of Missouri, to the effect that he had been informed that a syndicate had been formed in this country to exploit the finances of Nicaragua and that it was represented in Washington by a former high official of the State Department. The Secretary very promptly declared that he know of the existence of no such syndicate and was certain that no such proposition has ever been laid before him or even discussed.

CHIEF AND RECORDER.

Officials Came to Blows in Charlotte Yesterday Afternoon.

Charlotte, N. C., June 25—The News says: Recorder D. B. Smith and Chief of Police Christenbury came to blows this afternoon at the city hall, box 1, ward 1.

Chief Christenbury was showing a man how to mark the tickets. Recorder Smith reported him to the mayor. The mayor sent for Chief Christenbury and reprimanded him for taking an active part in politics. As soon as he left the Mayor Chief Christenbury hunted the Recorder up and asked him if he reported him to the Mayor. "I did," said the Recorder.

"What for?" asked the chief.

"For taking an active part in politics," said the Recorder.

"Anyone that said I did that told a lie," said the chief. Whereupon the recorder struck him with his umbrella and then the chief jumped on him. They were going at it in a lively way when parted by those standing by.

FEDERAL INDICTMENT OF THE COTTON BULLS

New York, June 21, 1910.

To the Cotton Farmers, Merchants and Citizens of the South:

"These are the times that try men's souls," This phrase, that became famous when men were fighting for their liberty, is equally applicable again today to the South, as it is evident her commercial liberty is at stake.

The writer, of New Orleans, who happens to be in New York at present, is familiar with the cotton situation, and thinks it high time for the people of the South to know what to expect in the future, whenever they attempt to protect themselves and their property from the raids of the money power of New York, and who seem sufficiently powerful, when faced with defeat in any of their schemes, to secure the assistance of the United States government in their behalf.

Not since the North, by act of Congress, confiscated the property of the South without due compensation, has the United States government lent its assistance to a scheme so unjust in every particular against the Southern States; which fact I shall try to demonstrate as briefly as possible, hoping the farmers of the South will not be "buncoed" by the fear of Federal interference, in securing for their property its true value, according to the recognized law of supply and demand.

Those who were familiar with the cotton situation this year, realized immediately after a panic year, the world actually spun last season 13,157,000 bales of American cotton; as the natural increase in consumption runs about 300,000 bales per annum, the necessary supply for this year, without adding anything to the invisible stocks, would be 13,500,000 bales. It was realized early this season the coming crop would not be over 10,100,000 bales, exclusive of linters, and bales of only 500 pounds in weight and of poorer spinning quality than last season; so by comparison with the weight of bales last season, we were faced with a shortage of over 3,500,000 bales; which, in comparison with the supply, is equal to over 33 per cent. The South being on the ground, so to speak, realized these conditions more forcibly than the North, and purchased cotton; trade conditions were good, and the mills were calling for cotton freely around 15 1-2 cents. The jealousy caused by the success of a certain operator, and the New York cotton market being so heavily "short," a raid was made against values, resulting in a decline, without any apparent cause, to the extent of three cents. Such a decline naturally made such Southern investors, who were "long" of the market, and could not fully protect their interests, to cover their investments as best they could. The Southern mills, realizing the great shortage, were much heavier buyers than the Northern mills, who were advised to stay out of the market, as they were assured that certain interests in New York were powerful enough to knock the bottom out of the market in a short time. The result being the wholesale and retail dry goods trade were advised to hold out of the market to such an extent that their stocks today are lower than ever known during a period of fairly normal conditions, and they are continuing to operate on a hand-to-mouth basis, in the belief that cheaper cotton will yet come to their rescue, from the fact that October cotton today is being sold by speculators at a heavy discount in the expectation of a liberal supply for next season; which sales discounting the present market, and great shortage now existing, are strictly of a gambling nature.

The raid made in New York in January caused July cotton to be quoted down as low as 13 1-2 cents, and it ranged for quite a while between that figure and 14 cents, while no spot cotton in the South was obtainable under a basis of 15 cents. These conditions affected the prosperity of the mills, because dry goods were selling on a basis of "future" quotations in New York and not on the actual spot cotton prices the mills were forced to pay. The New York market was selling at such a heavy discount that several investors who were "long" of the market, and had carried same through the unwarranted decline, simply agreed to call for the cotton against the contracts they had bought, and not retender it to each other, for such action would simply have played into the hands of the bears as the same cotton could be re-tendered innumerable times; and herein solely lies the so-called crime the gentlemen have committed, who were indicted by the Federal grand jury in New York City, June 17th. If these gentlemen had pooled their interests and purchased and sold their contracts together as a unit, the government then might have strained a point by claiming same to be unlawful. While I am not a lawyer, I fail to see what a future contract has to do with actual cotton, so long as the actual cotton is not pooled or distributed against the commercial interests of the country. The business conducted by the so-called bull clique has simply been this: The Southern mills who had cotton and needed more, were not pleased at the very low quotations of future contracts in New York, as it affected the value of their manufactured goods, besides encouraged buyers to remain out of the market as long as possible. Several of them agreed to buy through Messrs. Hayne and Brown a certain number of bales of futures, if another raid was made by the New York bears, which at the time could be purchased lower than the spots throughout the South. They were to take up the cotton and ship same to their mills, or sell elsewhere if so desired, at any price satisfactory to themselves, but not retender same on contracts. As no price to sell or pool the actual cotton purchased by the mills was agreed upon, I fail to see wherein any law has been violated, and the contract was passed upon by competent lawyers who agreed same to be strictly proper. Now, to this agreement the mills appear to be parties of the second part, and Hayne and Brown parties of the first part; and it seems strange the parties of the first part can be indicted without the parties of the second part, who are equally as guilty if any law has been violated. Regarding the agreement between Messrs. Hayne Brown, Patten, Scales, and others, these gentlemen were "long" of the market, believing cotton a good investment with such a short supply, and realized there was an organized bear clique working to break prices. They had purchased their future contracts separately in the open market, paying different prices for same, and simply agreed to take up the cotton they were then "long," and sell same in the open markets of the world as best they could, which they have done, none knowing the prices the others obtained or where same was to be shipped; neither do they know today to what extent any of the others may be either "long" or "short" of the market on future contracts, as there is absolutely no pooling of interests. As a matter of fact, these gentlemen bought this cotton on contract so much cheaper than the actual cotton could be secured, they could afford to sell their purchases at 1-8 to 1-4 of a cent under the market, and make a larger margin of profit than they possibly could by conducting a regular commission business. That there was an organized bear clique in New York was universally conceded here, and the following is a little clipping from the commercial report of the Journal of Commerce, June 16th:

"While the ring sentiment is still very much against the bulls, the bears just now seem to lack leadership, and there is not that hearty co-operation observable among certain strong interests that there was when they were working together in an unsuccessful effort to get more cotton here for delivery on May contract than the longs could take care of."

This clipping shows conclusively that the bears were working together in order to break prices, as they were naturally "short" of more cotton than they ever expected to tender. It would be folly to claim there was no organized effort to break prices when cotton was brought from Liverpool to this market at a heavy loss to be tendered against their May sales. Cotton was also brought from all sections of the South for the same purpose, at a heavy loss. It certainly is fine business for "merchants" to bring cotton

Social Duties of White House Fall Upon a Schoolgirl

Washington, June 22.—Miss Helen Taft from the moment her mother arrives at Beverly, the last of June, will become active in social life. Though but nineteen years of age, it has been decided that Miss Taft shall take up the social activities of the President's household. Owing to the ill health of Mrs. Taft her daughter will take the leading part in entertaining gusts at the summer home. The plans call for Miss Taft to return to Bryn Mawr in the fall, but social Washington expects the young woman to be so deep in society by that time that she will be forced to continue the leadership of the President's household.

FOR INTERNATIONAL PEACE

Address of Hon. John H. Small in the United States Congress Recently—North Carolina Takes the Lead.

In the wide lattitude allowed members while the bill to establish postal savings banks was recently under consideration in the House of Representatives, Hon. John H. Small, of the First North Carolina District, took occasion in the course of a speech to refer to North Carolina's primacy in the movement for International Peace and Arbitration. Concluding his splendid address, Mr. Small succeeded in having entered as a part of the record much valuable data furnished him by Mr. Hayne Davis. Speaking to the subject of International Peace, Mr. Small said in part:

Mr. Speaker: Both in my position as a member of this House and as a citizen, I wish to make a slight contribution to the cause of international peace. Naturally the greater part of the time of the individual Representative and of this body in the aggregate is devoted to consideration of subjects affecting the welfare and progress of one's own constituency insofar as they are consistent with the well-being of all the people, and their interests are usually paramount, while the rapidly changing conditions constantly present new problems affecting the Republic as a whole. Usually very little of our time is given to the consideration of those international problems which concern the attitude and the relationship of the United States to the other enlightened nations of the world.

The time is long past, however, when we can move within the narrow sphere of provincial limitations. Methods of transportation have multiplied, and at the same time rapidity of movement has increased. The greyhounds of the sea and the railroads have been supplemented by the cable and the telegraph and the press, and all these have brought the nations closer together and united them with the bonds of amity and commerce. As in the community no normal individual lives unto himself alone, so can no nation in its relations with another ignore the basic principles of right and justice which an enlightened Christian sentiment has prescribed. History teaches that many of the wars and misunderstandings which have occurred between governments have resulted from mutual ignorance or the selfishness of cruel ambition. Just as mutual acquaintance between individuals so often serves to obliterate intolerance and misunderstanding and serve to disclose the good qualities of each, so has this diffusion of knowledge, the one with the other, among different peoples served to make the whole world akin and enabled each to observe and appreciate those good qualities in others deserving of commendation and emulation.

How natural it is under these changed conditions that the leaders of thought and the molders of public sentiment in our country have come to the consideration of the problem of international peace and of a better method of settling disputes than a resort to cruelties of warfare.

It is a pleasing fact to observe that in this international propaganda for peace the United States has been the most conspicuous and illustrious exemplar. This proposition has never been more fittingly expressed or more strongly fortified than by the present distinguished Secretary of State, the Hon. Philander C. Knox, during the present month at the commencement of the University of Pennsylvania in an address entitled "The Spirit and Purpose of American Diplomacy." He set forth in a luminous manner the adherence of this government to the eternal principles of amity and justice and recited from precedents the application of the policy of arbitration in the settlement not only of the various controversies of this government with others, but also set forth the potential influence of the United States in the adjustment of controversies between other nations.

I shall take the liberty of quoting the conclusion of this very timely and eloquent address:

"I have sought to show by this review how uniformly and consistently the motives and results of our international action have tended to advance the brotherhood of nations. We have indeed, as is right, firmly maintained our national sovereignty and dignity and the rights of our citizens, and we have not avoided war when honor and duty have invoked that stern arbitrament. Nevertheless, we have loyally submitted ourselves to the control of the ideals of peace and to the principles of international comity and good will; and we have exerted our influence and good offices to guide and aid others along that path. We have not, indeed, stood alone in this attitude, but have acted in concert with other powers who recognize the same high call and seek the same great ends. From the ages when barbarism and cruelty dominated the world, through the intervening eras when advancing civilization slowly extended to relations between States the forces of enlightenment and beneficent private conduct, we have reached a point when it is evident that the future holds in store a time when wars shall cease; when the nations of the world shall realize a federation as real and vital as that now subsisting between the component parts of a single State; when by deliberate international conjunction the strong shall universally help the weak; and when the corporate righteousness of the world shall compel unrighteousness to disappear and shall destroy the habitations of cruelty still lingering in the dark places of the earth. This is 'the spirit of the wide world brooding on things to come.' That day will be the millenius, of course; but in some sense and degree it will surely be realized in this dispensation of mortal time.

"It is for this country always to maintain its historic policy and attitude, to be true to this greatest duty of a nation, which is entirely consistent with all its internal duties, to advance that time which the whole course of history and all divine prophecies and revelations alike presage. "The tumult and the shouting dies, the captains and the kings depart.' Let us invoke that solemn prayer of the poet, 'lest we forget' that the ancient sacrifice still remains—the sacri-

FROM BOSTON TO BEAUFORT

Representative J. Hampton Moore Talks Interestingly and Understandingly of Great Feasibility of Waterway.

Washington, D. C., June 22.—Representative J. Hampton Moore, of Pennsylvania, and president of the Atlantic Deeper Waterways Association, has been an enthusiastic advocate of improving the rivers and harbors of the United States ever since he was a reporter on the Philadelphia Public Ledger years ago. Since he came to Congress he has taken a commanding position in the movement for a comprehensive waterway policy on the part of the government and the formation of the Atlantic Deeper Waterways Association is due largely to his persistency and enthusiasm for the construction of an inside passage from Boston to Beaufort, N. C., and thence on to the Florida Keys using the canals, bays and sounds between Boston and Beaufort, thereby shortening the distance some 600 miles between the points named and at the same time avoiding the perils of Hatteras. At the last session of Congress Mr. Moore endeavored to secure the authorization for an invitation to the International Navigation Congress to meet in the United States but failed in securing such authorization. This session Mr. Moore has had better luck, the Rivers and Harbors bill carrying an appropriation for $50,000 for this purpose. Commenting on the provision the hustling member from the Philadelphia district said:

"The coming to the United States of the Permanent International Association of Navigation Congresses will mean much for waterway development in this country. It is well known that we are far behind European countries in inland waterway development. The picked engineers and experts of all nations attend these conferences in the old countries and this will be the first conference of the kind to be held in the United States. The significance of such a convention is apparent when we recall that up to 1907 the United States, with its vast area, had spent only about $550,000,000 on all its waterways and harbors, while France alone, since 1814, had spent more than $700,000,000."

Mr. Moore expressed the earnest hope that the next international conference held in this country would devote itself, amongst other things, to a discussion of the limitation of artificial harbor depths. He had just been before the Committee on Foreign Affairs advocating a joint resolution recently offered by him directing the Secretary of State to confer with the maritime nations of the world as to the advisability of reaching an international agreement upon this question.

"It is highly important," said he, "that the nations should come to some understanding as to the depth to which they propose to dredge harbors for the accommodation of a very few big ships. New York alone on the Atlantic coast is prepared to receive vessels of the Mauretania and Lusitania type. Are we to continue for other harbors the artificial depth we are giving New York, or are we to agree all along the coast upon the concentration of international trade and commerce at one point? What one port has another will strive for, and an equal distribution of trade seems to be a fair proposition. This same problem confronts British ports like Liverpool and Southampton. The latter has the advantage over Liverpool and any further dredging, if the construction of freak vessels is to be involved, would operate to put Liverpool out of business.

"But apart from the question of distributing trade, is the very important one of the wasting of public money. Every nation is affected, but the United States—by reason of its area—will undoubtedly be the largest sufferer, because, if foreign shipowners build vessels of extraordinary draft, the various ports of the United States must be deepened to accommodate them whether they do or do not appear at those ports."

Scared Into Sound Health.

Mr. B. F. Kelly, Springfield, Ill., writes: "A year ago I began to be troubled with my kidneys and bladder, which grew worse until I became alarmed at my condition. I suffered also with dull heavy headaches and the action of my bladder was annoying and painful. I read of Foley's Kidney Pills and after taking them a few weeks the headaches left me, the action of my bladder was again normal, and I was free of all distress." Robt. R. Bellamy.

to a market and sell same at a heavy loss, showing on its face that it could be nothing else but a speculative bearish raid; yet the government entirely overlooks same, and apparently endorses the principle that it is just and honorable to conduct business at a loss with the view of breaking prices, and for gamblers to sell that which they do not possess; but it becomes a felony for a man to purchase that which he thinks cheap and to call for the delivery of same, to be sold in open competition throughout the world. The simple agreement that the cotton would not be re-tendered on future contracts in New York would hardly be a Federal proposition at best, as the contract is purchased under the rules and charter of the New York Cotton Exchange, which would be a State issue. But if the marketing of spot cotton by the holders of same had been pooled, and a fixed selling price agreed upon by them, then the government could possibly have some rights in interfering; but certainly not otherwise. If I understand the laws of my country correctly, we are allowed to protect ourselves in our interests, by any agreement not harmful to others. Just the same as a man who might have a residence on a piece of property, owning a vacant lot next to same, would have a right to stipulate in the sale that on this lot a barroom or blacksmith shop could not be built; or any other building permitted, of a nature that would hurt the value of his adjacent property. The absurdity of the proposition is the complaint by the bears, who sold cotton "short," that the buyer paid him more for his goods than they were worth. If the firms who sold contracts, and brought the cotton to this market to tender against such sales were doing a legitimate business, it is the first time in my career I have ever heard a seller complain that the buyer paid him more than he should. We certainly will have reached the millenium when this time arrives in general business.

The situation has become so strained in this section, on account of the firms who formerly dominated this market, and set the value upon the product produced entirely by another section, having to withdraw their fight and "take to the tall timber" because of the losses sustained by their May operations, that the recently elected president of the New York Cotton Exchange, in an article published in the Journal of Commerce, June 15th, ignores his official capacity entirely in order to try and defend the recent bear raid in May; which communication was answered by Mr. Frank B. Hayne, and published in the Journal of Commerce on June 17th. The entire statements of Mr. A. R. Marsh, the new president of the N. Y. Cotton Exchange, are so absolutely absurd in every particular, not only regarding the May deal, but otherwise, I do not take the time to make further comment, but simply refer those who are sufficiently posted and interested in the matter to read same.

Under the law of supply and demand, allowing an increase of 300,000 bales per annum in consumption, which has been the recent average, the world would spin next season 13 3-4 million bales of cotton; and if the crop was of that magnitude, cotton would likely be next year just as scarce as it is today. The manufactured stocks of wholesalers as well as retailers will be at the famine point by the first of next September, and the demand for September and October cotton, which contracts have been largely bought by spinners and must be fulfilled by some shipper, will be simply enormous. The cotton planter who sells his product below 15 cents, even should the next crop indicate 14 million bales, will simply be selling his birthright for a mess of porridge. If the crop next season indicates 13,000,000 bales, it should bring at least 16 cents; and 12,000,000 bales anywhere from 17 to 20 cents; under 12,000,000 bales, any price the holders see fit to ask. We have had one of the most phenomenal seasons on record, and the next crop is undoubtedly very late, which subjects it not only to an early frost, but to a late and most deadly attack of the third crop of boll weevils in the States of Texas, Oklahoma, Arkansas, Louisiana and Mississippi. The Atlantic States have had three consecutive good crops, and the indications are that a bad one is about due. Nothing short of the most favorable conditions from now on, with an extremely late frost, could possibly make a crop in excess of 12 1-2 to 13 million bales.

New York has never before been a primary cotton market until the bulls made it so this season. The cotton that came here was principally to control the chalk mark prices which in turn affect real values, and gave those firms heretofore, by pooling their interests in about 150,000 bales of spots, the power to milk the market up and down for all they thought it would stand, as 98 per cent. of the so-called "Cotton Merchants" of New York would run away from a tender of a thousand bales of actual cotton, as if it were a rattlesnake; so to break the market all that usually is necessary is to issue a reasonable amount of notices, and the parties issuing same get them back at a much lower figure, reducing the general list of values of all months. This method was carried on uninterruptedly for years, until cotton got so low, a large per cent. of the planters went broke, and cotton farms were sold at auction for less than the value of the fences on them in some cases. The South apparently does not appreciate or realize that it was due to the intelligence and grit of one or two men, who came North at the end of the Summer a couple of seasons, and successfully beat the bears at their own game, and established a living price for cotton the following years, that the present prosperity in the Southern States is due and entirely dependent upon. A bear clique is something like arson; it is dirty business, and therefore hard to prove. There is hardly any one man in the South financially strong enough to fight the organized methods of the New York market; and if it becomes a crime for a few of them to agree simply to call for the actual cotton they have bought, though selling same strictly in open competition throughout the world, then the South will be commercially dead in a few years.

Cotton is the one article that can stand a heavy advance for the raw product which means so much to the South as well as the North, as the balance of our trade is dependent upon same; and yet the cost of manufacturing and re-manufacturing is so great an advance in the raw material is not felt by the consumer. For illustration—a pound of cotton makes over seven yards of calico, about the cheapest product worn; therefore one cent a yard would equal seven cents per pound on raw cotton, and taking the cost of a dress of such material, the labor for making, trimmings, etc., must be added to the retailer's profit; so the per cent. of advance would be very small. A suit of clothes that sells at retail for $12 to $14, contains about two pounds of cotton and about two pounds of wool; an advance of five cents a pound in the cotton would mean less than 1 per cent. increase on such clothes to the consumer. Ninety-five per cent. of our wearing apparel today is retailing at the same prices as when cotton was five cents less; the great cost comes in the manufacture—making up into ready made garments, and then the jobbers' and retailers' profits. An advance of one cent a pound on butter, meat, sugar, or two cents per bushel on wheat, would be a much greater burden for the consumer to bear than an advance of five cents per pound on raw cotton.

New York, by holding 1 per cent. of a normal crop for tender in this market to people who would not know what to do with it, has heretofore virtually controlled prices. Now, the tenders for the first of May were about 180,000 bales, which was run up during the month to 337,000 bales, or 3 per cent. of this year's short crop, or 2 per cent. of the world's supply—as other countries raise cotton—but hardly over 1 1-2 per cent. of a full crop year. For the government to claim that this per cent. of a world crop is a "monopoly in restraint of trade" certainly looks absurd on the face of it, especially when the bulls shipped out their cotton as fast as it could be handled here, with all the delays purposely put in their way, and poor transportation facilities; yet today only 135,000 bales remain in New York. This cotton has largely gone to the principal markets of the world, and prices there maintained against values of cotton from all sections of the world. The action of the bulls in trying to market any unreasonably large quantity of cotton in too short a period of time would have the effect of breaking prices, instead of maintaining them, unless the situation was legitimately strong enough to maintain itself. The world actually spun last season over 250,000 bales per week, of American cotton, for the 52 weeks in the year. The supply left in New York today represents only enough for three days, and the bulls do not own all of it; all has been sold to spinners in the most open and fair competition.

It is now up to the Southern people to confine their operations, as much as possible, to Southern firms, where their interests are more united, and resent in every manner possible this late attack by the United States government, which to say the least, does not look to be of such a voluntary nature on the part of the government; when Mr. Henry W. Taft, brother of the President, is the attorney for the New York Cotton Exchange, and is particularly intimate with the bear clique, who virtually control the exchange; and is also an ex-partner of Mr. Wickersham, the Attorney General of the United States, who fails to see flagrant violations of the law taking place almost daily in nearly all of the large organized corporations, that the government has overlooked; but has wasted nothing short of a small fortune on a case that can never be sustained by any court in the land, and can only bring discredit upon the administration in the end.

fice of the submission to the Almighty of the hearts of a people resolute for righteousness. Thus we shall realize in some sort ourselves and shall help the world and the future to realize that 'far-off divine event to which the whole creation moves'."

As in all problems which are worth the solving, difficulties have presented themselves in the practical working out of this problem for international peace. It was realized that, in the present time at least, no nation, no matter how strong in wealth and national resources, could afford entirely to disarm. The working out of a condition in which the whole world would stand for universal peace involves the eradication of errors which have been implanted for centuries, and unhappily this period is yet in the future. For the time being the government of every country must be prepared to maintain and preserve its territorial integrity and to repel the wrongful assaults of others, and if necessary even to use its own strong right arm in the maintenance of peace. Under these conditions the lion and the lamb have sat down together and have formulated a policy which may be tersely expressed in the axiom of "adequate armament and effective arbitration as correlative agencies for national security and international justice."

Mr. Chairman, I am happy to state that in this practical propaganda for international peace which is being waged throughout our own country, that North Carolina "sits at the head of the table." In substantiation of this statement, and as an incentive to other States and communities, I shall beg to incorporate and append certain material as a part of my remarks, and to have it printed in the Record.

HOW EDITOR JULIAN SAW IT.

(Salisbury Post.)

After one of the pleasantest and certainly one of the most profitable sessions in its history, the North Carolina Press Association adjourned today. No set of men have worked harder during the past three days than the editors. In their deliberations they have covered a wide range of topics and engaged in general discussions that were most helpful.

It is to be doubted if such affectionate regard as that expressed for Joseph P. Caldwell by eight different speakers and shared in by the whole association has been manifested towards any private citizen of the State. His continued illness was the only shadow upon the spirits of the convention. It is indeed worth while when, after running counter, as J. P. Caldwell has times innumerable, to popular opinion, one is accorded such tokens of spontaneous and genuine esteem.

The editor most inquired about during the convention's life was Col. Wade H. Harris, of the Charlotte Chronicle. Every editor who can lay hands on the paper reads The Chronicle and turns first to its editorial page, where may be found from three to five columns of entertaining editorial every day. Col. Harris couldn't write a dull line if he tried hard and he must be a highly pleased man at some of the bouquets tossed his way by his fellow scribes.

It is not stretching the truth to say that the citizens of Wilmington cannot be surpassed as hosts. Nothing was left undone to make the visit of the editors agreeable. City officials, members of the local press and private citizens were one in making for the good time the visitors had. No invidious comparison is intended when Col. "Jimmie" Cowan, editor of the Wilmington Dispatch, is singled out for a special word of praise. Mr. Cowan is a bundle of energy, which he directs understandingly, and was on the spot all the time. He is a choice spirit and the craft will be thinking very much about him in the future.

A Woman's Great Idea

is how to make herself attractive. But, without health, it is hard for her to be lovely in face, form or temper. A weak, sickly woman will be nervous and irritable. Constipation and Kidney poisons show in pimples, blotches, skin eruptions and a wretched complexion. But Electric Bitters always prove a godsend to women who want health, beauty and friends. They regulate Stomach, Liver and Kidneys, purify the blood; give strong nerves, bright eyes, pure breath, smooth, velvety skin, lovely complexion, good health. Try them. 50c. at Robert R. Bellamy's.

This Laxative for Children Free

I have preached to mothers for years to be careful what they give their children for bowel trouble. Not everything is fit for the delicate organs of a child. Cathartic pills are too strong even when crushed or broken in half, and salts and purgatives are both too strong and bad-tasting. Then what is the remedy? It should be a liquid, in which the taste is disguised so as to make it palatable, and it must be mild and not gripe. The remedy that fills these requirements is and druggists have sold it for me for a quarter of a century. Mothers are giving it to their children today who were given it by their parents when they were children, and the grandparents are still using it. There is no better laxative obtainable for children, women and old folks, for these especially need a gentle though none the less effective remedy. It is a guaranteed cure for constipation, liver trouble, sick headache, heartburn, sour stomach, etc. Given to the child before retiring, or in the morning on arising, it will be relieved in a few hours, and a brief use of it as directed will prevent a recurrence of the trouble. To prove my claims I will send a free sample bottle to anyone on receipt of name and address. Then, if convinced, buy it as others do of your druggist at fifty cents and one dollar a bottle. Read what users say.

DR. CALDWELL PERSONALLY WILL BE PLEASED TO GIVE YOU ANY MEDICAL ADVICE YOU MAY DESIRE FOR YOURSELF OR FAMILY PERTAINING TO THE STOMACH, LIVER OR BOWELS, ABSOLUTELY FREE OF CHARGE. This baby is my grandson. His name is McKinley Dixon and I have witnessed to prove that Syrup Pepsin has made this boy what he is in health. After he began using Syrup Pepsin he gained from 1 to 2½ pounds a week. His weight was 24 pounds at four months of age; he had no trouble in cutting teeth. He has ten or twelve teeth and is only six months old. You may copy any part of my letter you wish, for it is true and will stand in the Last Day.—G. W. Witten, Mingo, Ky.

Will let you know what your wonderful remedy did for my little girl Dorothy. I had had different kinds of medicine and doctors, but have never in my life seen anything act so quick and without pain as your Syrup Pepsin. It is certainly the best medicine and I shall never be without it again and will recommend it to all my friends.
MRS. M. JOHNSON,

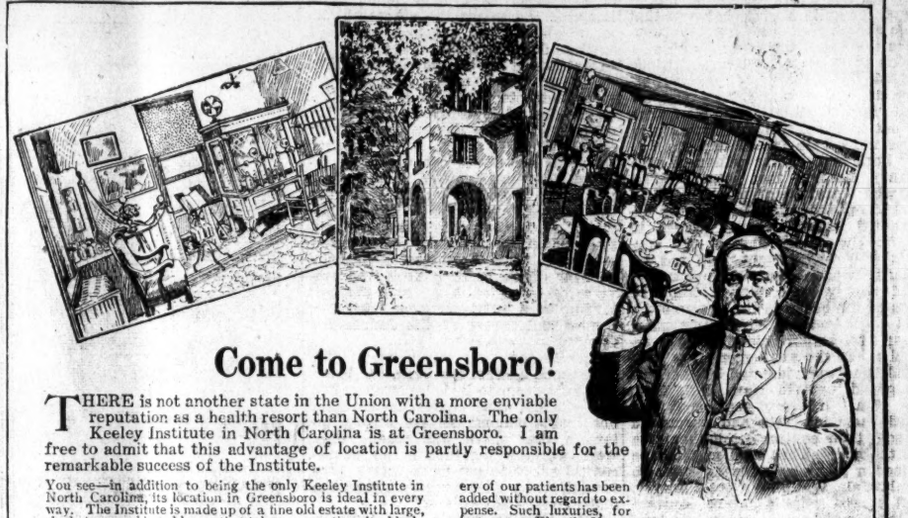
I will state that I had stomach trouble of some kind; I was swelled; my breath was short; I had palpitation of the heart; I had no energy and I was dizzy. I took one bottle of Syrup Pepsin and now my bloat is all gone; I have no more heart trouble; I feel good in every way. I had tried everything I could hear of and nothing did me any good until I commenced the use of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. I am very thankful to you for such a medicine, which I can heartily endorse and recommend to all who are suffering from stomach troubles.—J. F. DANIELS, Saron, Texas.



Come to Greensboro!

THERE is not another state in the Union with a more enviable reputation as a health resort than North Carolina. The only Keeley Institute in North Carolina is at Greensboro. I am free to admit that this advantage of location is partly responsible for the remarkable success of the Institute.

You see—in addition to being the only Keeley Institute in North Carolina, its location in Greensboro is ideal in every way. The Institute is made up of a fine old estate with large, shady trees and broad lawns that take up an entire city block; the buildings having been added to from time to time as our growth demanded it. And as the buildings have expanded our equipment and methods of management have kept pace with our growth. And this, I think, is the other big reason for our success.
Every modern medical apparatus that would hasten the recovery of our patients has been added without regard to expense. Such luxuries, for instance, as Electric, Vapor and Shower Baths and Massage are provided to add to our patients' comfort. The cuisine is the delicious home-cooking of the South. If desired, rooms may be had en suite with private bath. In fact, nothing has been overlooked to make the patient's stay a pleasant one. We have a sympathetic understanding of your case that puts you at your ease from the first moment.

There is no humiliation, inconvenience or publicity about the treatment. Your stay could scarcely be more enjoyable if you were on a Summer vacation.

Our booklets tell you all the facts. Write me personally. Make it as frank as you like for every letter you send us is treated with the utmost confidence.

Making Ready for the Big Fight at Reno on Monday, July 4th

Who Will Wear Heavyweight Crown—Jeff or Johnson?

By TOMMY CLARK.

THE all absorbing topic in the sporting world just now is the approaching forty-five round battle between Jack Johnson and Jim Jeffries. As was to be expected, Jeffries is the favorite in the betting at odds of 10 to 7, but this in reality is more a question of sentiment than cool, unbiased judgment. Men who make a close study of prizefights and their form are not so prone to risk their dollars on the white man who has been out of the game as long as Jeff. Then, too, they realize that in Johnson he will face a strong, husky, clever and hard hitting man.

While the forthcoming fight is in many respects the most important ring battle that has ever been held in this country, no fight of importance has drawn forth so much unfavorable criticism. From one angle it looks far more like a battle for dollars than a fight for a title. The spirit of commercialism so pervades the whole scheme that many of the more suspicious have cried "Fake!" and go so far as to say that it will be a picture fight and perhaps a prizefight later.

This talk is nearly all rubbish. There is no such thing as "fake" attached to the big mill, nor will it be a fight solely for the pictures. The battle will be fought on its merits, and the best man will win. About the commercial side of the big mill—who can blame the men for trying to get all they can out of the scrap? Perhaps never again will such a large purse be offered for a pugilistic battle. Five years ago were one to suggest that any two pugilists would be fighting for a purse of $101,000 they would be informed that an insanity expert was needed. Not alone is the purse the highest ever put up for a fight, but it is expected that the gate receipts will be a record breaker, and it is also figured that over a million dollars will be bet on the mill.

Best Men of Their Races.

The fight promises to be one of the greatest, if not the greatest, in the history of the prize ring. Johnson and Jeffries represent the best fighters of their races, and the result will depend on the matter of condition. If Jeffries could enter the ring with the strength and skill that characterized his fighting before he retired he would lower Johnson's colors beyond any doubt. But the wheels of nature were not made to turn backward, and the man who breaks the laws of nature must pay the penalty.

Jeffries has been in training for many months, and his handlers say he is the Jeffries of old, ready to put up the greatest battle of his career. While the big fellow may appear to be in great physical condition, who can tell whether he can put up the greatest battle of his career? The contest alone will answer that. No doubt Jeff has trained faithfully and worked very hard to attain his present good form, but when he battles with Johnson that vitality which is absolutely necessary for any kind of an athletic contest may be missing. In other words, in my opinion it has been impossible for Jeffries to bring himself to the shape he was in when he gathered in his laurels.

Does any one realize what "coming back" means? It is like trying to regain past years. The prize ring has yet to see the first man "come back." When Corbett beat John L. at New Orleans Sullivan was trying to come back. Corbett led a merry life between this time and his meeting with Fitz in Carson City. He also tried to "come back," and ring history tells you that he lost his title. Is Jeff different from other men? Hardly. It makes no difference whether one leads the swift, merry pace or takes life easy for a long time. Either method takes away the strength, vitality and agility needed for a long battle. Jeffries is now in his thirty-sixth year, and as every intelligent chap who follows athletics knows it is impossible for any athlete at thirty-five to be within 25 per cent of his form at twenty-four years of age. For any one to claim that Jeff is as physically fit today as he was ten years ago is rubbish. In other words, Jeff may appear to be in grand shape; but, to be candid, he has passed the zenith of his career.

Negro at His Zenith.

How about Johnson? The negro is now at the height of his career. He has been fighting steadily ever since he became a pugilist. Between fights he may be a high liver, but he has never been out of condition. Johnson is as perfect a specimen of physical manhood as any one could wish to see.

Many fight experts refuse to give Johnson anything but a slim chance with Jeffries through prejudice against the colored man. Some say he can't hit, he always backs up, he has not the punch and is always stalling, and a few more things. The more conservative critics concede that Johnson is one of the greatest pugilists that ever donned a mitt. As clever as Jim Corbett was in his palmy days, Johnson is just a little bit better.

Fitzsimmons was considered the hardest hitter, but the colored man can wallop every bit as hard. As a ring general Johnson classes with the best in the game. It has been claimed that he has a yellow streak, but no one has ever been able to prove it.

"Johnson has never defeated a first class man. In Burns and Ketchel he beat a pair of midgets who are just good middleweights, and Kaufman was never a first class heavyweight," say a number of fight experts. These same fellows point with pride at the class of men that Jeffries met—Corbett, Sharkey, Ruhlin and Fitzsimmons. Now, the trouble with these fellows is that they underestimate the ability of Burns, Langford, Ketchel and Kaufman in attributing superiority to Corbett, Sharkey, Ruhlin and Fitzsimmons.

Langford is a better man today than Sharkey ever was. He can punch harder and is a better boxer. Burns at his best would defeat Sharkey. Kaufman is the equal of Ruhlin, and the chances are that he could beat Gus with the latter at his best. Johnson has a more effective defense than Corbett, has the strength that none of Jeff's victims possessed and can hit harder than any of them.

Johnson will enter the ring confident of winning. When they start you can go broke that the negro will use all his cleverness to prevent Jeff from landing the terrible right that has wrecked so many men. That means that Johnson will keep on the defensive until he thinks Jeff has lost a lot of his strength and is having trouble with his wind. When Jack is satisfied that he holds the upper hand he will change his tactics and try to beat Jeff down with those sharp uppercuts and stinging jabs that will take the big fellow's energy away and leave him an easy mark for his colored rival. For comparison the coming fight might be called a long distance horse against a big draft horse.

Johnson has been steadily fighting for the past few years, while Jeff has been taking it easy. There is little doubt that the negro has gained considerably by his experience in the many battles since Jeff retired, and the latter has naturally lost power. No doubt Jeff has trained hard for the mill and is able to wrestle for an hour with his helper, still he has done very little boxing, one of the most important things for a man like Jeff who has been so long out of the game. He may still have the punch and strength, but his hitting eye, his judgment of distance, may perhaps be lacking. It is too bad that the big fellow did not have an actual ring fight under his belt. One or two contests of the real article would do more to bring these back—his hitting eye and judgment of distance—than months of boxing at the training camp.

Hard fighting round after round is the only way a man can find how much stamina he possesses, whether his hitting eye is good or his judgment of distance poor. Jeffries has not taken part in a real fight since he defeated Jack Munroe Aug. 26, 1904, and there has been no chance for such a struggle at his training quarters, no matter how hard his sparring partners try to hit him. The bitter animosity, the merciless slugging and the test of courage are always lacking in such trial affairs at the training camp. So Jeffries will have to depend largely on his physical condition when he faces the negro.

Jeff's best chance to win is to go after Johnson just as soon as the bell rings and get to the latter's midsection early and often. By this method he might land one of his terrific rib smashers and put the negro out, but if the battle is prolonged Jeff's chances of winning will go glimmering.

When he runs up against Johnson the white man will find that the negro, heavier and stronger than Corbett, Fitzsimmons or Sharkey, is one of the most scientific men he has ever tackled. If Johnson takes his time he will wear Jeff down, for he possesses a wonderful defense and is never in a hurry. As Johnson is not a rusher and wastes very few punches, how can Jeffries, with the old lack of aggressiveness, stop him quickly? If the fight goes more than twelve rounds Johnson will stand off and cut Jeff to pieces with his long left, and if Jeff comes boring in to close quarters the negro will wallop him with the same terrific blow that put Ketchel out.

Johnson is the biggest man physically Jeffries has ever met and the cleverest. He is not an aggressive slugger who rushes in to finish a man in the first round; but, on the contrary, he is a cool headed, crafty, patient boxer, with a phenomenal defense and a hard wallop in either hand when the proper opening is offered.

Johnson is not a believer in taking chances. He is strictly a waiter. He never hits from the shoulder unless he sees a vulnerable spot unprotected. He knocked out Ketchel with one punch, hand to deliver the sleep producing wallop.

Johnson is not a swinger. He believes that swings waste one's energy and are too apparent to a sharp eyed antagonist. Those who have made a study of Johnson in the ring say that while he possesses a knockout blow in his right hand uppercut he is averse to taking a chance with this punch until he finds the proper opening. He has been known to fight many rounds without using the right hand at all except to block the other man's assaults, and in that way he has completely disarmed his opponents by convincing them that his right hand is a useless weapon. Then gradually forcing a rival to regard his right without apprehension, Johnson has suddenly let fly the punch straight to the vital spot with crushing force.

Jeffries, on the other hand, has a style that is just the opposite. His best blow is a left hook or half swing delivered as an antagonist rushes in, while he has beaten numerous challengers with tremendous body blows driven home with his right hand. Johnson has a good defense, but he is not afraid to take a punch on the head or in the stomach. His one weak point is lack of aggressiveness, for he is not a rusher and is deliberate in his footwork. He prefers to set himself before cutting loose a punch, and in that way he can get all kinds of power into his blows. He likes to have a man come to him and mix it up at close quarters, where his great bulk and stamina count.

Having this line on the respective fighting tactics of Johnson and Jeffries, therefore the ring experts are busily figuring out how the coming battle will be waged. It is generally conceded in the first place that the scrap will not be short and decisive, for Johnson will plan to prolong it as much as he can with the idea of tiring Jeff out. Unless Jeffries revolutionizes his general style he will not adopt rushing tactics, for he is too big and heavy on his feet to hope to land effective blows while under headway. But adopting crafty ring science, always keeping in mind that the ring is twenty-four feet square and that the fight can last forty-five rounds if necessary it is predicted that Johnson will be a hard man to corner and beat down unless he loses his head.

HOW JEFFRIES AND JOHNSON PLAN TO FIGHT

By JACK JOHNSON.

"I expect to be able to go a long distance to wear Jeffries down without running any dangerous chances and then to go in and win. I am not foolish enough to think that Jeffries will be as easy as Burns or Ketchel, for I know he will prove much harder to beat. He may come back looking fit and strong, but I think you'll find that he will not be able to stand the strain and will not show the old speed.

"I intend to let him do all the fighting at the start, for I want to size him up for a few rounds. I want to be sure about his real condition before I take a chance. If I find I can outbox him and can find the proper opening I think I can hit him harder than Fitzsimmons did, and that means he'll go down."

By JIM JEFFRIES.

"I will lick Jack Johnson, and I will lick him quick. I don't intend to stall when I meet the negro in the ring. I don't say this just for the sake of saying something, but because it's the gospel truth. Johnson never saw the day he could beat me. He may be a fairly good fighter. I admit that. He may have been able to beat some good men who were anywhere from twenty to forty pounds lighter than he, but just wait until he gets into the ring with a man who is twenty pounds heavier than he is and a man who has beaten better men than Johnson ever dreamed of being. That's why I say I am going to beat Jack Johnson and going to beat him quick."

a terrific right hander to the jaw, although he had not tried such a blow in any of the preceding rounds. In meeting Jeffries it is figured that Johnson, taking into consideration the white man's possible lack of wind, will plan a long fight by blocking and clinching necessarily round after round until Jeffries becomes tired. Then the negro may begin to cut the boilermaker to pieces, just as Wolgast trimmed Battling Nelson. In fact, the Johnson believers say the fight with Jeffries will simply be a repetition of the Wolgast-Nelson affair, with the negro playing the part of the new lightweight champion. They declare, in short, that if Johnson wins it will be after twenty-five or thirty rounds and that Jeffries will be gradually worn down to a helpless condition.

Few experts believe the fight will go the limit. None of them can see the struggle in that light. As there is much ill feeling between the principals it is the prevailing opinion that Jeffries will try to bring about the negro's defeat as soon as possible, realizing that the longer the fight goes the worse it will be for the white race. It is admitted that three hours in the ring would be a terrible undertaking for Jeffries and that because of his present condition such a lapse of time would seriously handicap him.

The right hand uppercut is Jack Johnson's best punch. The negro has scored all of his knockouts with this kind of a wallop and has seldom failed to reach the point of the jaw when cutting lose. Johnson has a sturdy left which is of value in attack and defense, but he never depends on that

WEEK'S NEWS AT LUMBERTON

Political Prediction Comes True—Opposition to Primary System—Personal, General and Other Items of Interest.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Lumberton, N. C., June 25.—Our prediction made over a month ago that the political racket in Wake county would be a small thing, compared with what was brewing in Robeson, has been fulfilled. We had hoped that our people would be spared the misery of a repetition of two years ago, but our hope was in vain. There has got to be a change of some kind in this county or the Democratic party is going to suffer, and that's no joke.

There is a growing strong opposition in this county to the primary system for the selection of county officers as conducted two years ago, and it is to be hoped that the executive committee will decide not to put it on the people again. It is a well known fact that many of the very best citizens of the county do not approve of it, and it is also well known that many of them will stay away from the polls rather than be gagged as that system does.

If some of the owners of lots in the new cemetery in North Lumberton should ask some friend to visit the cemetery where loved ones are resting, the visitors would be astonished and the owners would or should be ashamed. The weeds are allowed to grow everywhere—all over the lots with graves same as in the wild woods. If the people who own lots and have their dead buried there will not have them cleaned up, then it has been suggested that friends of the dead have it done.

St. Alban's Lodge No. 114, A. F. & A. M., will have a special communication for the installation of officers Tuesday night for the ensuing year. In addition to the installation exercises a social session will be held at which refreshments will be served. All Master Masons are cordially invited to be present.

Yesterday afternoon an automobile being driven by a little son of Mr. W. W. Carlyle, got beyond control and ran into a dray which was standing on the street. The horse took fright and ran away, not stopping until the dray was demolished. Mr. O. C. Norment was driving down street and seeing the frightened horse coming hastily got out of his buggy to get to the head of his horse. Mr. Norment is very feeble and not being able to move fast, many people held their breath in horror, expecting to see him hit by the fleeing animal. However, Mr. E. M. Britt took in the situation at a glance and rushed into the street throwing his coat in front of the horse, causing him to shy enough to miss Mr. Norment.

Jim Winfield, a well known colored painter, died Wednesday. Jim had the distinction of being one of the very few colored Democrats in this section. The adoption of the constitutional amendment did not bother him as he was possessed of the required qualifications.

Superintendent Gore, of the Seaboard, was here yesterday and stated that in a short time a row of posts would be put across the yard at the passenger station from the corner of the building to the edge of the street next to the artesian well, thus keeping out of the way vehicles which try to crowd in too close. We understand that the new chief of police has also stated that he was going to break up the Sunday evening crowds who congregate at the depot to see the train come in, often making it difficult for passengers to get to and from the cars.

Unless the signs fail or something happens from now on, if reports are to be believed, hunting will be good in this section next season. One thing is certain, we have never heard as many quail in the woods as we have during the past few days while driving in different sections of the country. The woods are full of them.

Some person or persons is doing Sheriff McNeill and Treasurer McKenzie a very great injustice by trying to drag them into the present political row which is going on in this county. The report is being circulated that they favor this one or that one, and that they are using their influence for certain ones. They say most emphatically that they are "hands off", having as much as they can do to attend to their own affairs, and it does not look right to charge them with things of which they are entirely innocent.

For some time people in Lumberton have been hearing a whistle early in the morning which seemed to be that of a train, but no one could locate it. It turns out to be the work train on the Beaufort County Lumber Co's. road, which is being constructed from Fairmont. The road passes within three miles of Lumberton, and we are told will cross the Seaboard three or four miles above here. The track is narrow guage but well built, and the locomotive which we have seen is an up-to-date Baldwin, as seen from a distance.

It was our pleasure one afternoon this week to visit the peach orchard of Mr. Daniel B. McNeill, nearly three miles from town. Mr. McNeill has eight acres on which he says he has 2,000 trees. They were put out one, two and three years ago, and are just beginning to fruit. In a very few years Mr. McNeill should realize a handsome profit from the investment.

Last Sunday morning, while Mr. R. O. Edmund was waiting at the station for the early train from Wilmington, he took out his watch to give someone the time. Instead of putting it back in his pocket as he thought, he slipped it behind his belt and thought no more of it until later in the day, when he found it gone. Diligent search was made, but all in vain. His gold watch was gone and naturally he was sick. Monday morning while Charlie Pitman, colored fireman on the R. & C., was walking around his engine, he discovered the watch where Mr. Edmund had dropped it. It had lain there over 24 hours and had been walked over by a hundred people or more. It was not damaged in the least.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Williams, who left here last Saturday evening for Dallas, Texas, made the trip in 49 hours and 48 minutes. The distance is 1,525 miles. On the way they spent 1 hour and 55 minutes at Hamlet and 3 hours anw 40 minutes at Memphis. At other points they made close connections. Over a third of the trip was made on the Seaboard.

Deputy Sheriff T. C. Barnes, who was shot a few weeks ago while arresting a couple of negroes at Maxton, is now able to ride out for a short time, and hopes soon to be entirely recovered.

George Leach, the colored porter for the Pope Drug Co., was tried before Mayor Rowland yesterday charged with disturbing religious services at a colored church Thursday night. In default of $200 justified bond George went to jail where he will remain until July court.

Messrs. Townsend Bros., who exchanged stores with Mr. Dunie this week, are much more conveniently situated, and when the improvements which they are making in the building are completed they will have one of the most up-to-date gents' furnishing and shoe stores in this section.

The Greensboro News, of the 23rd, —Republican—devotes over two columns of its space to the "Beauty Show in the Sixth District." Some of us should "sit up and take notice" of ourselves as others see us. The article contains some nuts for some one to crack.

Lumberton welcomes Dr. and Mrs. W. L. Grantham, who have decided to make it their home. They have rented and moved into the residence owned by Mr. T. N. McDiarmid, on Sixth street.

Mr. E. I. Pool, cotton buyer for the Lumberton and Dresden Cotton Mills, will leave next week for his Summer vacation. He will be accompanied by Mrs. Pool. They will first go to Norfolk to spend some time with Mr. Pool's mother and then visit other places. They expect to return about the first of September.——Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Deese will leave tomorrow morning for Charleston, S. C., where they will spend some days with the parents of Mrs. Deese.——Mr. W. K. Bethune, business manager of The Robesonian, spent yesterday in Wilmington.——Mr. and Mrs. Wade Wishart left yesterday morning over the R. & C. for Whiteville, in response to a telegram announcing the critical illness of an aunt of Mrs. Wishart.——Mr. Wallace Norment left yesterday morning for Charlotte where he will spend a few days on a pleasure trip.——Mrs. F. M. Lane, who has been spending several days here with relatives, returned yesterday to her home at Dillon, S. C.——Mr. H. C. Rancke, of Rockingham, is spending some days here with relatives.

Rev. A. E. Baker, pastor of the Lumberton Presbyterian church, left Thursday evening for Washington, D. C., where on yesterday he officiated at the funeral of Mrs. Gorman, widow of the late Senator Gorman, of Maryland. Mr. Baker will return early next week.

Mrs. A. W. Preace and little daughter left this week for High Point where they will spend some time with relatives.——Mrs. Frank H. Wishart and children who have been visiting relatives in Fayetteville, returned home this evening.

Mr. Ballard, who holds a position with the Kingsdale Lumber Co., will move next week from the Butler house on Fifth street to the new residence in North Lumberton recently erected by Rev. E. M. Hoyle.

A movement is on foot for the organization of a new corporation in Lumberton to be known as the "Lumberton Auto and Live Stock Co." Mr. W. W. Carlyle is the promoter and expects in a few days to offer stock for sale and make application for a charter. Mr. Carlyle's name at the head of the business means that it will be a success from the beginning.

Daniel Johnson, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. D. F. McNeill, died Thursday night and was buried yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

PENNSYLVANIA EQUIPMENT.

Has Nearly 2,000 Cars of All Steel Construction—Cost.

Philadelphia, June 22.—According to an announcement made today, the Pennsylvania Railroad System has in service on its lines, or on order, nearly 2,000 passenger cars of all steel construction. These cars have been added to the company's passenger equipment since June, 1906, when it was announced that all future additions to passenger equipment on the Pennsylvania system would be of all steel construction.

The lines of the Pennsylvania system, on all of which steel cars will be operated, include the Pennsylvania Railroad Lines east and west of Pittsburg and Erie, the Long Island Railroad, the Cumberland Valley Railroad, the New York, Philadelphia & Norfolk Railroad, the Vandalia Railroad, and the Grand Rapids & Indiana Railway.

The Pullman Company is at present constructing a sufficient number of steel sleeping and parlor cars to equip the entire Pennsylvania system. These cars are now being delivered at the rate of from 50 to 60 a month. Already they are in service on through trains 75 sleepers and five combined parlor and baggage cars. When the present order is completed there will be in service on the Pennsylvania System some 600 all-steel Pullman cars; this number is included in the 1988 cars now in use or on order.

The steel passenger cars on the Pennsylvania System have been called "Dreadnaught" cars by reason of their construction. They weigh some 118,500 pounds as against 85,000 pounds in the standard vestibule wooden coach. This increase in weight very greatly reduces the vibration of the car, thereby adding to the comfort of passengers. The car is non-collapsible, its principal feature being a central box girder 24 inches wide by 19 inches deep extending throughout the entire length of the coach; this girder, in collision, prevents telescoping. The car is fireproof, containing only about 125 pounds of wood, the latter is used for window frames and arm rests in the seats.

In the steel equipment now in service, there are 457 coaches, 22 dining cars, 34 passenger and baggage cars, 33 baggage, 78 postal and 80 Pullman cars. In addition to these there are on order or under construction at the present time, 502 steel coaches, 28 steel dining cars, 83 passenger and baggage cars, 83 baggage, 39 postal, 28 baggage and mail, one combination motor car, and some 520 Pullman cars.

With the 704 steel cars in use at present, and the 1,284 cars on order, the Pennsylvania System will shortly have available for use on its lines east and west of Pittsburg and Erie a total of 1,988 solid steel passenger equipment cars.

The United Wireless

To the Stockholders of the United Wireless Telegraph Company:

In view of the wide publicity which has been given to the charges made against certain officers of this company, and the spectacular, misleading and untrue manner in which the matter was exploited, the management deems it a duty to the stockholders of this company to inform them of the exact facts of the situation.

On June 15th, the president and first vice president of the company were arrested. The gist of the charges against the officers arrested, is that they have been using the United States mails to promote a scheme to defraud, in that a fictitious and inflated value was placed upon the patents and patent rights of the company and that the selling price of the company's stock was advanced without justification.

Early in May of the present year, a personal representative of the Chief Postoffice Inspector at Washington called at the offices of the company and stated that he desired to make a general investigation of the affairs of the company. The executive committee, by unanimous resolution, promptly authorized the treasurer of the company to submit for examination all books, papers and records of the company, and in pursuance of such direction, the treasurer and his assistants afforded every possible assistance to enable this officer to make a thorough investigation. This officer repeatedly expressed his complete satisfaction with the manner in which he had been received and his investigation expedited by the officials of the company. While the investigation was still in progress and without the slightest intimation from any source that the result of the examination was otherwise than satisfactory, the warrants were issued and the arrests made.

In order that the stockholders may see how unusual was the action of the government in singling out the United Company for attack, we deem it appropriate to call attention to the standing of other wireless companies and their methods of doing business.

On January 1st, 1910, there were in existence 10 wireless telegraph and telephone companies, doing or claiming to do business in this country. These companies were:

The Pacific Wireless Telegraph Company, capitalization $10,000,000.

The Massie Wireless Telegraph Company, capitalization $300,000.

Collins Wireless Telephone Company, capitalization $1,000,000..

The Clark Wireless Telegraph & Telephone Co., capitalization $2,500,000.

The Radio Telephone Company, capitalization $2,000,000.

The Great Lakes Radio Telephone Co., capitalization $1,000,000.

The Atlantic Radio Telephone Co., capitalization $2,500,000.

Pacific Radio Telephone Company, capitalization $2,500,000.

Marconi Wireless Telegraph Co., of America, capitalization $6,650,000.

United Wireless Telegraph Company, capitalization $20,000,000.

The first four companies mentioned, namely, the Collins, Clark, Pacific and Massie Companies, have been merged into the Continental Wireless Telegraph & Telephone Co., with an authorized capitalization of $5,000,000.

The original authorized capital of the American Marconi Company was $6,650,000. Recently its capitalization was reduced to $1,442,500. The total authorized capital of the companies above enumerated is $16,442,500. The total authorized capital of the United Company is $20,000,000, of which less than $12,000,000 has been issued. It should be noted that the American Marconi Co., the original authorized capital of which was over $6,000,000, was limited to the operation of business in the United States. It will thus be seen that the capitalization of the United Company is not only not excessive, but exceedingly conservative.

The official list of wireless telegraph stations of the world, published by the United States Navy Department, Sept. 1st, 1909, shows the number of stations open for public service in this country credited to all companies other than the United Company, does not exceed 27 stations. The number of stations credited to the Marconi Company is four, and the number credited to the United Wireless Telegraph Co., is 74, since which time the United has installed 26 new stations, making the total number in active commercial operation today 100. The same official list shows total number of merchant ships and yachts equipped with wireless aparatus to be 465. The United Company has more ships equipped than all other companies combined, and, since the publication of said list, the United has equipped and under contract other ships, sufficient to bring the total list up to date to 340 ships.

In view of the foregoing, it will readily be seen that the valuation placed upon the patents and patent rights of the United Co., are extremely conservative and the advances in market price of the stock authorized by the executive committee were amply justified by the increase in business.

We firmly believe that with the support and confidence of our stockholders this company will not only come out of this trouble triumphantly, but will continue to grow and expand to what we have always believed it would, the largest and most successful wireless company in the world. We would, therefore, ask the stockholders to not only suspend judgment, but give us their hearty and active co-operation and enthusiastic support.

Inasmuch as certain charges have been preferred against certain officers of this company, the management would prefer to have judgment in this matter passed upon by such directors of the company as are not officers and to that end a special meeting of the directors has been called to appoint a special committee to institute a thorough investigation of the company's affairs to ascertain whether there is any basis in fact for the charges in question and to make their report to the stockholders and to the public.

In order that the directors may be unhampered in the choice of the investigating committee, none of the directors who are officers in the company will take any part in the selection of said committee.

SENSATION AT NEWBERN.

Rev. A. C. Schuler Cited to Appear Before Magistrate—The Hearing.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Newbern, N. C., June 25.—Last Sunday night Rev. A. C. Schuler, pastor of the Tabernacle church in this city, made an assertion from his pulpit that he had positive proof that there were a number of men in Newbern who were engaged in the sale of whiskey and that there were men on the city police force who were in league with the men who were engaged in this illicit business and that he stood ready to tell their names at any time.

Last night Mr. W. D. McIver, the city attorney, had one of the local magistrates to issue a summons for Rev. Schuler compelling him to appear before him and divulge the names of those who were engaged in the sale of whiskey and to also tell the names of the officers who were in league with them. The hearing was set for 11 o'clock and promptly at that time Rev. Schuler, in company with his attorney, made his appearance at the magistrate's office. At 11:30 the prosecuting attorney who had the warrant or rather the summons, served, had failed to make his appearance and the hearing was begun without him. Schuler first read out the names of four men to whom government license had been issued. "The mere fact" he said, "that these men held license to sell whiskey, was prima facie evidence that they were selling it, and although he had never bought any from them he was sure it could be done by other people." The magistrate then asked him to tell what he knew in regard to one of the policemen being connected with this set of men. Schuler then told of a conversation he had heard a few days previous in which one of the policemen had been known to receive money from the sale of whiskey that had been stolen. At this juncture he stopped and asked the magistrate if he should tell the name of the officer The magistrate told him that he could do as he chose in the matter, and there the case ended.

The magistrate then referred the case to the Police Commission and at their next meeting it will be thoroughly investigated.

What a Summer Cold May Do.

A Summer cold if neglected, is just as apt to develop into bronchitis or pneumonia as at any other season. Do not neglect it. Take Foley's Honey and Tar promptly. It loosens the cough, soothes and heals the inflamed air passages, and expels the cold from the system. Robt R. Belamy.

Fat Defeating Extraordinary

Margaret Knolly.

SLENDER Margaret Knolly, now, if you please. The facinating leading lady of the Bijou, now more fascinating than ever, astonished all her friends on Broadway the other day by pressenting to their admiring gaze a svelt and willowy form in place of the plump, not to say fat, outlines with which she gaily sailed away to new triumphs and foreign shores last January. After a good deal of diplomatic cross-examination from interested fat acquaintances the secret was cautiously whispered to a few dear friends, with the result that everybody knows it now. It was not exercise, nor fasting, nor sea air, nor worry about her new venture that had brought about this wonderful willowy change in the charming Margaret; no, none of these; nothing but a simple mixture which all good druggists are familiar with and can supply at small cost, to-wit: One-half ounce Marmola, one-half ounce Fluid Extract Cascara Aromatic, and three and one-half ounces Peppermint Water. "Grown folks need a teaspoonful after meals and at bedtime," explained the now slender Margaret. "It is simply wonderful. It takes off the fat quickly, as much as a pound a day, and keeps it off. You can eat what you like, too. In that respect it is unlike anything of the kind I ever heard of, and besides it has another splendid feature—it is entirely harmless, and will not cause wrinkles. I think it is about as essential a toilet article for the woman who is fat and wants to get thinner as face powder. In order to get the best results, however, you should buy the Marmola in the original package and mix it in with the other two ingredients after you get home."
